ENJOYING FARM LIFE IN HIGH FALLS

HAI (L) AND DANG MEET NEW FRIENDS

HAPPINESS IS A FRIENDLY DOG

High Falls Farm Becomes Home for Two Viet Children

HIGH FALLS
Showing no signs of their arduous journey half-way around the world last weekend, Hai and Dang scrambled around the farmhouse living room floor playing and chattering.

William H. Warren, a middle-aged dairy farmer who has operated Duchess Farms for the past 25 years, and his wife Carolyn, a kindergarten teacher in Marletown, are once again "Dad" and "Mom", with their new family members from Saigon.

Warren explained that he and his wife had enjoyed their family of a son and daughter so much the first time around that they decided two years ago to adopt more children. Dang and Hai's new family includes Michael, 24, who works in Stone Ridge and Nancy, 20, a college student in Iowa.

The brothers have new names. They are now Andrew Dang Warren, age six, and David Hai Warren, age 8, two of the older Vietnamese orphans to be airlifted from that war torn country.

They are not orphans in the strict sense of the word, as their mother is presumably still living in Bien Hoa, a small village on the outskirts of Saigon.

Warren, a slightly built, strong-looking man who smiled often as he spoke, said that children of mixed Caucasian and Oriental blood were looked down upon in Vietnam, as is the case with Hai and Dang. Their mother, just this January, placed them in the Holt orphanage with the hope that her children might have a better future than she could provide.

The Warrens read a story on the Holt Adoption Agency, with headquarters in Eugene, Ore., in the Freeman two years ago and contacted the agency with an eye toward adopting a Korean child; Warren had served in Korea while in the service.

TEXT . . . Tim Schuster
PHOTOS . . . Bob Haines

The home study by social service workers was only completed on the Warrens last December. Holt sent pictures of Dang and Hai just last Wednesday and said they had to know right away if they wanted them.

"We said 'definitely yes,'" he said. The family was told Saturday that they should show up at Kennedy International Airport at noon Sunday for the children, and to bring some warm clothes. There was no time for preparation.

Kennedy Airport was a mob scene, with 74 children to arrive from the West coast after a stopover in Chicago requested by Mayor Richard J. Daley that held the flight up for five hours. It didn't arrive until 5:30 p.m., a very fatiguing day, said Warren, who did not appreciate Daley's politicizing at such a time.

The children had traveled so much that the next morning after they had slept upstairs in the 11-room Warren house they came downstairs fully dressed with their new coats on and their new toys in paper bags, fully expecting to resume their journey to somewhere else.

"When we explained that this was home, their faces lit up in big smiles," chuckled Warren, who communicates with the children through a series of motions and love, as they understand almost no English.

Dang, the younger, sometimes speaks so fast in his native tongue that Hai will "interpret" his brother's intent through hand signs.

The youngsters will start Monday at Marletown Elementary School. They were examined by the Warren family physician who pronounced them to be in "as good or better physical shape as the American kids around."

There was one bad time last week that stands out in Warren's mind. He awoke Friday to hear radio news that a plane carrying orphans out of Saigon had crashed, killing many. "I sat up in bed and the blood drained out of me," he recounted. It was three hours before he knew that Hai and Dang were not on that plane.

"We have a lot we can give them," mused Warren. "There's no place like a farm for bringing up kids."

"People tell us what a wonderful thing we are doing," he added, as Hai performed a trick of manual dexterity with his toys in the corner and Dang played a melody on the electric organ. "We feel it's the other way around."

Reds Continue Drive Toward Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist tanks and infantry backed by artillery swept into Xuan Loc province capital today and attacked other government positions as close as 25 miles to Saigon. Thick columns of smoke rising from the battlefield could be seen in Saigon.

Xuan Loc, 38 miles east of Saigon, was pounded by more than 4,000 rounds of North Vietnamese artillery fire. Fleeing civilians said the main Xuan Loc Roman Catholic church was hit today while hundreds of women and children huddled inside. They said there were casualties but could give no details. Tens of thousands of refugees fled in panic down the French-built highway toward Saigon, lining the road for a dozen miles in an attempt to escape the fighting. The province chief told the Saigon command headquarters by radio that another 12,000 fled toward Communist lines to the north.

Military sources said the drive by two North Vietnamese divisions—with two more in reserve—may be the start of a major Communist offensive against Saigon. The Battle for Xuan Loc, which began Wednesday, is the first major test for the South Vietnamese armed forces following three weeks of disastrous routs throughout the northern two-thirds of the nation.

One force of Communist troops skirted Xuan Loc, and government officers said they were pushing artillery pieces down abandoned railway tracks paralleling Highway 1, a remnant of French colonialism and the most important road in South Vietnam.

Related Indochina Stories on page 32.

They harassed the highway and fired artillery at Trang Bom district town, 25 miles northeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese air force F5 "Freedom Fighter" bombers and helicopter gunships counterattacked around Trang Bom, sending up huge columns of black smoke visible in Saigon, more

UPI correspondent Leon Daniel reported from Trang Bom that government reinforcements moved along Highway 1 toward Xuan Loc, but were keeping off the main road where they would be sitting ducks for Communist artillery-men and mortar crews.

By midafternoon, field reports said Highway 1 between Trang Bom and Xuan Loc had been cut.

Soldiers and militiamen at Xuan Loc moved their families out of the city and stood fast at their positions, Daniel said. The Xuan Loc area had been heavily populated by Catholics who fled North Vietnam 20 years ago.

"These people will fight," an American official told Daniel. "They don't want to leave their homes again."

In the major battle, thousands of Communists launched human wave assaults against the outmanned defenders at Xuan Loc. Refugees reaching Trang Bom said Xuan Loc had fallen but military sources told Daniel the city was still under government control, although it was hit by more than 4,000 artillery, rocket and mortar rounds during the night.

The future of the refugees was uncertain. Government security men—troops and police—stopped all refugees along Highway 1.

Sewer Break Adds to Library's Woes

The Kingston Area Library, which will run a deficit of about $20,000 at current funding levels, got some more bad (financial) news, Wednesday. Repairs on a sewer break will cost between $5,000 and $6,000. "We have no contingencies for any emergencies," said Trustee Mary Jane Scanlon. "We cannot cope with this on top of everything else." Repairs are expected to be completed next week (Freeman photo.).

Ford to Renew Military Aid Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will renew his request for additional military aid for South Vietnam when he addresses a joint session of Congress tonight, top White House aides indicated today.

The aides indicated the President at least will ask for the $300 million he previously requested for South Vietnam. They also said he would ask for an undisclosed amount of money to launch—in the event of a Communist takeover of Saigon—a humanitarian airlift for the South Vietnamese who have helped the U.S. government in the past.

The aides said Ford told them his nationally televised "State of the World" speech will be "the most important speech of my presidency." It is scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT.

Reporters and photographers today were admitted to the Oval Office where Ford was meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Kissinger wore a grim expression but he brightened into a smile and told reporters "the President thought I was punchy at 1 a.m. this morning."

The President said that he had worked until 1:15 a.m. on the speech. Kissinger could be overheard to say "I've got a few suggestions."

Kissinger is reported to be pushing Ford to take a tough line, urging that adversaries be warned that the United States will stand by its commitments.

Other aides are said to be telling the President to take a more conciliatory stance and to appeal for bipartisanship during a time when the United States foreign policy objectives in Southeast Asia have been shaken.

Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Army Chief of Staff, who returned from a fact-finding mission to South Vietnam last Friday, has estimated that $700 million is needed to put the South Vietnamese Army back on its feet.

As late as Wednesday evening, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had "not made up his mind" whether to renew his appeal to Congress for military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia. The President has already said he will seek humanitarian aid.

He still has before Congress a request for $300 million in military aid for South Vietnam and $220 million for Cambodia. He gave some indication at a news conference last week in San Diego that he might seek even more funds to help South Vietnam survive.

Nessen said former President Richard Nixon assured South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu both publicly and privately in 1973 in effect that the United States would provide adequate economic and military aid and would "react vigorously" in case of massive Communist violations of the peace accords. Nessen said Congress has since ruled out any U.S. military intervention.

Ford invited congressional leaders of both parties to White House briefing Wednesday afternoon. None of the Democratic Senate leaders, including Mike Mansfield, attended.

'Foster Children' Must Pay

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville School District stands to gain about $70,000 from a ruling by Supreme Court Justice John L. Larkin that upholds the constitutionality of a state law requiring "home districts" of foster children to pay their tuition to attend an out of district school.

At present, Ellenville Central Schools District has 56 foster children attending school who were prior residences from outside the district.

Most of the school districts that have been ordered to pay tuition retroactive to January of 1974 are from Westchester County—White Plains, Yonkers, Yorktown, Peekskill, Mamaroneck and Croton-on-Hudson—although the Kingston City Schools Consolidated is also included.

In fact, probably every school district in the state is affected one way or the other.

"I think it's a good decision," said Kingston Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann. He said city schools have "five or six" foster children attending Ellenville but suggested, "with us, it's pretty much of a wash," meaning Kingston has about as many foster children from its district attending other schools as visa-versa.

In the Rondout Valley District, officials figure to gain "about $6,000" based on the 15 foster children attending classes there.

Ellenville has been fighting what it considered the encroachment of children (tuition-free) into its district from mostly Westchester County and New York City Schools for the past four years.

"I have to give a lot of credit to Clark Bell and Senator Rolison for getting the bill through the legislature," said Sol Sashin, business manager at Ellenville.

He was referring to former Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and (current) State Senator Jay P. Rolison who sponsored legislation in 1972 requiring the "hometown" social service agencies to pay the cost of tuition. That bill was vetoed by former Gov. Rockefeller but Rockefeller signed a Bell/Rolison bill in 1973 that required the school districts to pay.

The school districts on the short end of the bill immediately challenged its constitutionality and went to court.

It is expected that an appeal will be taken due to the potentially far-reaching effects of Larkin's decision.

'Guilty of Nothing' . . .

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jack Scott, a sports world radical suspected of aiding Patricia Hearst, emerged from hiding Wednesday hinting he was connected to the Hearst case but had done nothing wrong.

Scott, 33, accompanied by pro basketball superstar Bill Walton, answered no questions on the advice of counsel. He said he would not talk with the FBI or respond to questioning by a grand jury.

Miss Hearst and fellow Symbionese Liberation Army fugitives reportedly stayed in a Pennsylvania farmhouse rented by Scott's wife, Micki. The FBI has telephone records of calls between the farmhouse and Walton's home in Portland, Ore., where the two Scotts were visiting.

The Scotts dropped out of sight just before the public learned of the farmhouse last month. FBI agents since have been interrogating Scott's friends and family.

Newsman were summoned abruptly Wednesday to a lawyer's office and then sent speeding to Glide Methodist Church where the Scotts and Walton appeared.

FBI agents surrounded the building, but took no action since there is no warrant or subpoena for Scott.

The Scotts denounced what they called FBI harassment and expressed fear "of being set up and possibly killed" by agents anxious for a shootout with the SLA.

"First of all," the Scotts said, "we have done nothing wrong. We are not fugitives. We have not been charged or convicted of any crime."

The hint of a connection with Hearst came when they said:

"Our actions of the past year are completely defensible. If we somehow acted to avert bloodshed and killing, we certainly find that nothing to apologize for."

They said Miss Hearst "apparently concluded during the first few weeks of her kidnapping" that the FBI had no concern for her safety and that her life was endangered by "trigger-happy agents."

The Scotts said they would not answer grand jury questions, if asked, because "total noncollaboration with this government is our moral responsibility."

Two Enter Guilty Pleas to Portions of Charges in County Court

KINGSTON Two young Kingston men charged with a pair of December 1974 burglaries entered guilty pleas in Ulster County Court Wednesday to portions of the indictments against them. David W. Otis, 20, of 85 Abruyn Street pleaded guilty to one count of third degree burglary in satisfaction of a four-count indictment against him. Conrad Sparling, 25, also of 85 Abruyn Street, named in the same indictment as Otis, pleaded guilty to two counts of third degree burglary and one count of grand larceny in satisfaction of the indictment, which included a second count of grand larceny.

In return for Sparling's guilty plea, a second indictment charging him with three counts of burglary and one count of petit larceny was dismissed.

First Assistant DA Michael Kavanagh explained that commitments had been made in the case prior to the handing up of indictments against the pair, and thus the guilty pleas to portions of the indictment were not in conflict with a new policy instituted the first of this year eliminating plea bargaining. When he announced the new policy, DA Francis J. Vogt said there would be no plea bargaining with respect to indictments. He did not, however, rule out plea bargaining in cases outside county court or prior to the handing up of indictments.

Sparling and Otis were charged in connection with an alleged burglary at Tshitan's Mobil Station, Route 9W, Saugerties on Dec. 2 and a second alleged burglary on the same date.

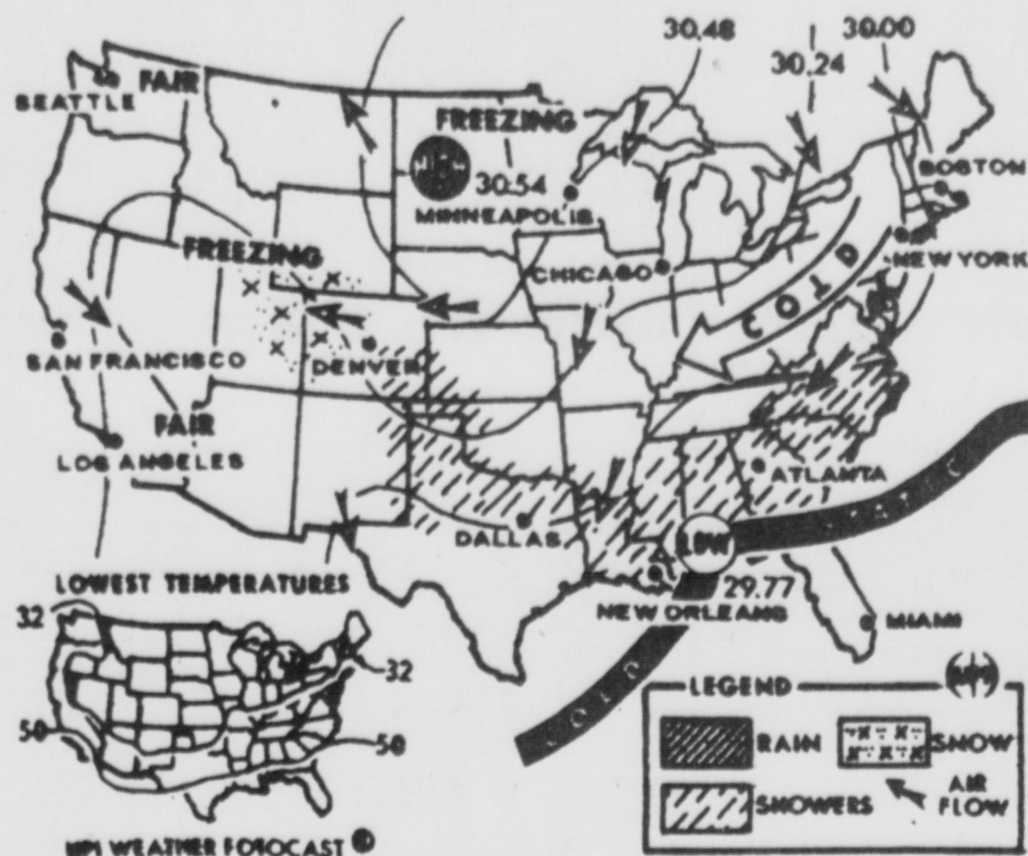

In other action in county court Wednesday, Edward Triana of Ossining was sentenced to five years probation by Judge Raymond J. Mino on a charge of attempted robbery in the second degree.

The charge stemmed from an alleged robbery in December, 1973 at the State University College at New Paltz in which Triana and two others are alleged to have taken cocaine from students, with a knife and gun used in the robbery.

Prior to passing sentence Judge Mino said he had a lengthy pre-sentence report on Triana and had a letter from the Westchester County Sheriff indicating that Triana's cooperation on a case had led to the apprehension of six people and the seizure of 12 pounds of marijuana. Judge Mino said he also had a report from the Drug Abuse Control Commission citing Triana for his "excellent behavior" since the arrest and recommending probation.

Judge Orders Financial Accounting

KINGSTON

The three partners of the McCordle Leahy Funeral Home, Inc., 27 Smith Avenue, Kingston,—Francis J. McCordle, Joseph V. Leahy and T. Robert Gallo, have been ordered by Acting Supreme Court Justice Lawrence E. Kahn to make a financial accounting to the corporation.

The case, heard recently by Justice Kahn, centered around disagreements concerning the partnership, salaries and bonuses and Leahy's operating a funeral business in direct competition with the corporation.

Judge Kahn also directed that Leahy issue shares of the stock to each partner so that each would own one-third of the corporation and that he (Leahy) be enjoined from operating a funeral home business in direct competition with the corporation for as long as he remains a director and officer of the corporation.

Public School Violence... A National Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate report says violence in the nation's public schools — including murders, rapes, attacks on teachers, vandalism and prostitution — has become a national crisis requiring legislative action.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said Wednesday the report revealed a "ledger of violence confronting our schools that reads like a casualty list from a war zone or a vice squad annual report."

He said the survey disclosed hundreds of thousands of assaults on students, including 100 murders in 1973; about 70,000 serious physical assaults on teachers each year; and extortion, drug and prostitution rings in suburban and urban schools.

The survey, prepared by the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee, covered 757 public elementary and public schools and showed dramatic increases in all forms of violence and vandalism.

The report said "there is clear and compelling evidence that violence and vandalism in the schools has reached a level of crisis that demands immediate legislative action."

Bayh, the subcommittee chairman who made the report public, said he would sponsor legislation to provide funds for alternative educational programs and security measures.

"These hallways and playgrounds of fear and terror also account for an estimated $500 million annual bill for vandalism," Bayh said. "This astonishing sum, which is actually a vandalism surtax on the cost of education, is comparable to the entire investment for textbooks for our nation's schools in 1972."

The report said student misbehavior is no longer confined to fist fights or isolated incidents.

"Instead our schools are experiencing serious crimes of a felonious nature including brutal assaults on teachers and students, as well as rapes, extortions, burglaries, thefts, and an unprecedented wave of wanton destruction and vandalism," the report said.

It disclosed that between 1970 and 1973, homicides increased by 18.5 percent; rapes and attempted rapes by 40.1 percent; robberies by 36.7 percent; assaults on students by 85.3 percent; assaults on teachers by 77.4 percent; burglaries of school buildings by 11.8 percent; drug and alcohol offenses on school property by 37.5 percent; and dropouts by 11.7 percent.

The report said the number of weapons confiscated by school authorities increased by 54.4 percent by the end of the 1973 school year. "These weapons," the report said, "include knives, clubs, pistols, and even sawed-off shotguns."

U.S. Government and the Big Banana Case

NEW YORK (UPI) — For half a century, United Fruit Co. operated as overlord of the Caribbean, ruling economies of the banana republics with vast wealth and power.

The U.S. government now says its modern-day successor United Brands was up to its old tricks, paying off high officials of Honduras for tax breaks on exported bananas.

United Brands admitted Wednesday that in September its chairman Eli M. Black paid one or more officials of Honduras $1.25 million and promised another payment of $1.25 million this month.

Some U.S. officials said privately it was believed that Honduras President Oswaldo Lopez got some of the money channeled by Black through French subsidiaries.

On Feb. 3, Black jumped to his death after using a brief case to smash through the window of his office on the 44th floor of the Pan Am building in Manhattan.

At the time, police were not able to determine a motive for the suicide. But associates said Black, a 53-year-old rabbi active in social and cultural causes, was depressed about business problems.

The Securities and Exchange Commission charged in U.S. District Court in Washington that United Brands deposited payoffs in Swiss bank accounts of Honduras officials and then sought to cover up the bribes, as well as payment of $750,000 in cash over the last five years to an official of an named European government.

No reference was made to the payments in the company's annual reports to stockholders or the SEC, as required by law.

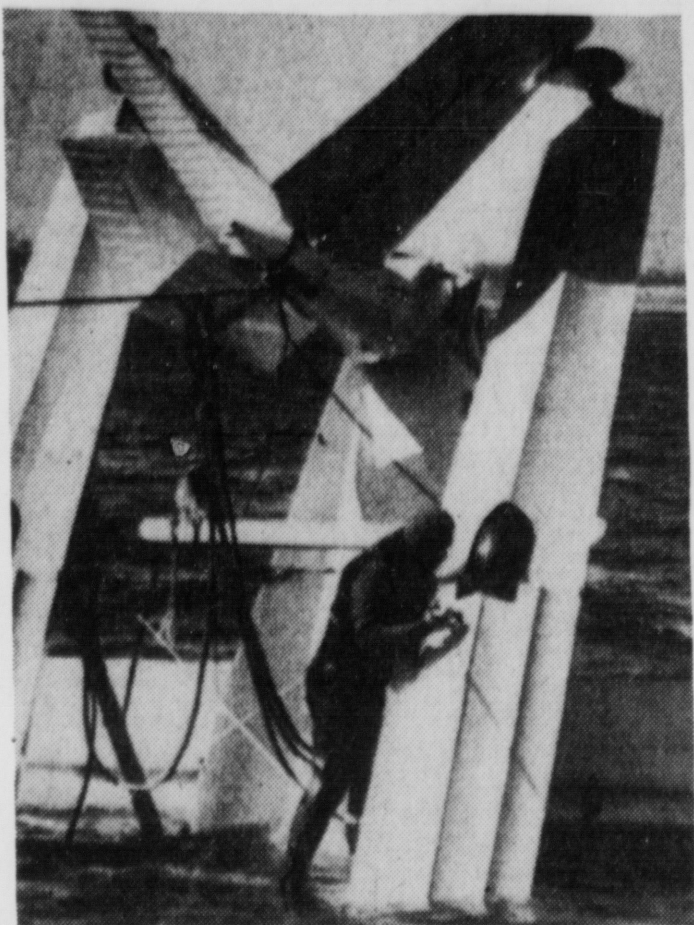

In 1970, Black formed United Brands through merger of United Fruit with American Seal Kap Inc., a maker of milk bottle caps. Though the new company expanded into other areas, bananas remained the main source of business, and United Brands held its position as the nation's largest importer of bananas.

From the turn of the century until the end of World War II, United Fruit virtually was a self-contained empire in Latin America.

It operated plantations on hundreds of thousands of acres and owned railroads, public utilities, hospitals, school and, some historians say, the local politicians.

Federal Reserve Officers Testify In Connally Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate prosecutors called seven Federal Reserve officers Wednesday in attempting to bolster star witness Jake Jacobsen's charge that former Treasury Secretary John Connally tried to hide $10,000 in bribes.

Chief prosecutor Frank M. Tuerkheimer indicated he would call five more officers before concluding the government's case in Connally's trial, now in its seventh day in U.S. District Court.

Connally is accused of accepting the bribes from Jacobsen, then a lawyer for the dairy farmers, as a payoff for his help in obtaining the 1971 increase in the federal price support for raw milk.

Later as Watergate investigators dug into the milk fund controversy, Jacobsen has testified, Connally gave him $10,000 in cash on Oct. 26, 1973, to replace the alleged bribe.

Jacobsen said they agreed on a cover story that Connally never accepted the money in the first place.

Jacobsen testified he kept the 280 bills in a nightstand next to his bed until March 7, 1974, when he turned it over to Watergate prosecutors.

Each of the Federal Reserve officers said the bills that passed through their districts were in circulation before Connally allegedly gave the money to Jacobsen. Daniel Kinsella, of Chicago, cited the latest date that any of the bills went into circulation — Sept. 29, 1973, four weeks before Connally's alleged return of the cash.

If defense lawyer Edward Bennett Williams can prove that even one of the bills was not in circulation on Oct. 26, 1973, he will do much to destroy Jacobsen's charge.

Amended Senate Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate amended its energy bill Wednesday to allow somewhat higher prices for the oil a producer finds through extra effort.

Aside from that, Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., succeeded in protecting his Standby Energy Authorities Act from most proposed changes, mainly the attempts to substitute profit controls for price controls.

The bill would give the President:

—Power to ration fuels and materials in an emergency.

—Power to restrict exports and to order some oil wells pumped faster.

—Directions to set up nationwide standards for use of energy at home and in businesses.

The Senate had its first protracted struggle on the bill over an amendment by Sen. J. Bennett Johnson, D-La.

He wanted oil producers rewarded with uncontrolled prices on the oil they get out of a declining well through extra efforts such as flooding a well with water to push out more oil. The process is expensive, Johnston said, and no operator will do it for the $5.25 a barrel he could get for the oil under price controls.

But an oilman would make the effort if he knew that "extra barrel" would be sold at an uncontrolled price, Johnston said.

"For the sake of this country, let's get some new sources of energy. Let's get that barrel out of the ground."

Decision Reserved in Teacher Case

KINGSTON
The case of a former Ellenville school teacher who asked for a change in position and subsequently found herself jobless, the post she wanted allegedly went to the daughter of a school board member, was heard recently in Special Term in Ulster County Supreme Court.

Judge Robert Williams reserved decision in the case of Mrs. Ethel Hils of Spring Glen who brought suit against the Ellenville School Board claiming that she had seniority as a probationary teacher over someone not on the staff.

According to Mrs. Hils' attorney, James Murray, the former guidance teacher sent a letter to the board in May of 1974 requesting a transfer from the guidance post to a position either as an English or social studies teacher, effective June 1974.

The English post she sought came up prior to June and Beth Siegel, daughter of school board member Jack Siegel reportedly got the job.

Murray claimed that Mrs. Hils has outstanding qualifications, and that the school board violated her contract which said that an existing member of the staff should be given preference in job applications.

Benjamin Lonstein, counsel for the school board, maintained that Mrs. Hils letter of May was a resignation and that her rights before resignation are not the same as after.

Murray claimed that all Mrs. Hils was saying in the letter was that she wished to be considered for the English or social studies post if there was a vacancy, and that the vacancy did occur prior to the date that her letter was effective.

According to court testimony, James Evergetis, superintendent of Ellenville Schools, did not recommend Mrs. Hils to the school board for appointment. According to Lonstein, as a probationary teacher she could not be appointed to an English or social studies teacher without the recommendation.

WALLACE'S IS SKIRTING THE ISSUE

Coming right to the point on the what-to-wear-when issue. Skirts! That's right! Skirts are the "thing" this spring. Anytime, anywhere. And here are two of our favorites. Both by Wardrobe Maker for sizes 8-16. In an easy care polyester and cotton denim. Top stitched, too. The back wrap's news, blue or green. Or button up in this two pocket model, brown or blue. Each 15.00. Each a smashing success. Come down and skirt the issue at Wallace's. Top it, too, 'cause we're tops . . . but you already know that.

Carey Orders Full Probe of Wrongdoing During Attica Rebellion

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state attorney general has asked for a personal meeting with a former state prosecutor charges there has been a hush-up of criminal wrongdoing by police during the bloody 1971 Attica prison rebellion.

On Wednesday, Gov. Hugh L. Carey told UPI that he has vowed to make certain that "justice will be served" in the case.

Carey said he asked State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz to look into the situation. The judge overseeing the grand jury probe also was being kept informed of the development, Carey said.

Earlier this week, Malcolm H. Bell, who was second in command of the state's prosecution, said he had resigned because of a refusal to pursue possible crimes, including murder, committed by law officers who recaptured the prison. He submitted a report to Carey's office.

A spokesman for Lefkowitz Wednesday said in New York City that the attorney general sent a letter to Robert P. Peterson Jr., a lawyer for Bell, asking to set up a meeting involving Lefkowitz, chief Attica prosecutor Anthony Simonetti, Bell and Peterson.

Carey told UPI that "we are very carefully and delicately handling the communication we received," noting that numerous criminal cases are still pending in connection with the riot.

He said his advisors "have taken the appropriate steps" and said that in addition to Lefkowitz, his office is in contact with State Supreme Court Justice Carman F. Ball, who oversees the grand jury proceedings.

"We will follow through ... and will make certain as an end result that justice will be served," Carey said.

Since grand jury action was initiated late in 1971, 62 persons have been indicted, all of them prisoners during the rebellion. Lawyers for the inmates, notably controversial attorney William M. Kunstler, have accused the state of covering up police wrongdoing.

Bell, who was assistant prosecutor with the state's organized crime task force, resigned in December. He disclosed earlier this week that he left the post because "the investigation lacks integrity."

The time and location for meeting involving Lefkowitz and Bell would have to be arranged by both sides, the spokesman said.

In his letter of resignation to Lefkowitz, Bell observed that "the inmates killed four people and about 60 have been indicted. Law officers killed 39 and none have been indicted. Was all the shooting justified? The evidence makes it plain that it was not."

GOV. CAREY TALKS TO NEWSMEN

(UPI)

Survivors Tell of Ordeal

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H. (UPI) — For five days, a young couple lost in a blizzard on Mt. Washington, huddled in a lean-to shelter, eating and playing games. And waiting.

"We played games — word games — sang songs and drove each other nuts," said David Cornue, 21, of Bingham, Maine. "We felt sure someone would come looking for us."

He said they kept warm in their down filled sleeping bags but the wind continually shook their shelter "like an earthquake."

A spring storm dumped four feet of snow on parts of the mountain range during the ordeal. Rescuers, battling strong, biting wind Tuesday, found Cornue, and his companion, Jane Gilotti, 19, of Bethlehem, Pa. But they could not return to civilization until Wednesday.

"We heard the helicopters so we knew they were searching for us," Cornue told reporters after their return.

He said he did not doubt they would be rescued, but said his confidence slipped at least once, during the first day. He tried to block snow swirling through the makeshift door when the wind swept away his parka.

"That scared hell out of me," he said.

He said they melted snow on their one burner gas stove for cooking and drinking water. They ate canned vegetables, soup, spaghetti, meatballs, creamed chicken and raisins.

"We didn't look at our watch because time would have dragged," said Miss Gilotti. "I wrote three essays in my head."

They said they waited out the storm cramped, but comfortable.

"We exercised every day except one," she said. "The only thing we needed was a stereo."

They were found in a lean-to shelter at Edmand's Col, five miles north of the summit.

They spent Tuesday night awaiting the arrival of the second four-man rescue team bringing snowshoes.

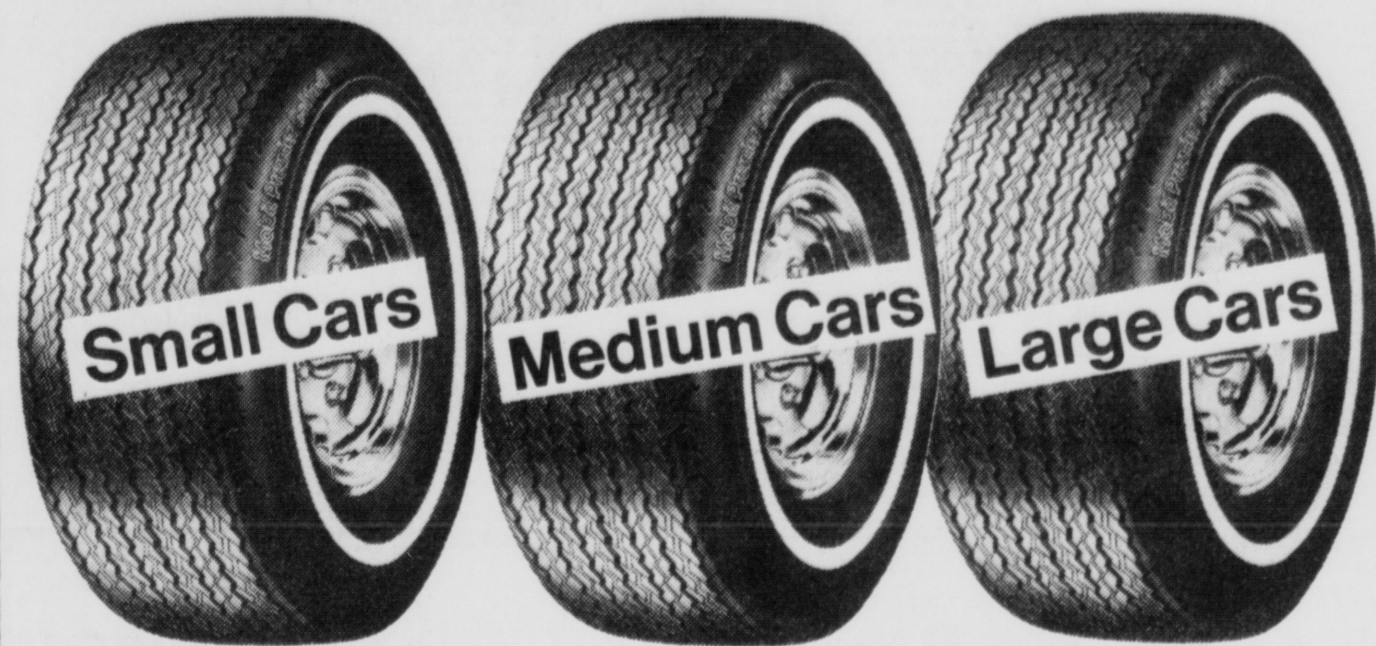

Plans to bring the group down in a helicopter were abandoned because 40-mile per hour winds swept the peak of 6,288-foot Mt. Washington, New England's highest peak, tearing seven-foot drifts into blinding snow squalls.

The couple, who survived their ordeal in fine physical shape, said they rationed their food, eating only once a day. When found they had two packs of hot chocolate, two bags of grits and a cup of soup left.

They said their biggest mistake had been going off by themselves and not taking snowshoes.

"We'll be back next year, but with more people and snowshoes," Cornue said.

Petition Against Aerosols

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers who buy aerosol products are being cheated and deceived because they have no way of knowing how much actual ingredient and how much propellant gas they are getting, a consumer group said today.

The typical hair spray is 65 percent gas by weight, and some deodorants are 95 percent propellant, the group said.

Yet shoppers comparing unit prices, based on the weight of both the gas and the ingredient, are led to believe the aerosol version gives them more for their money.

In a petition to the Federal Trade Commission, a group of George Washington University students calling themselves STRAFE (Students Resisting Aerosol Fluorocarbon Emissions), asked the FTC to require the $3 billion a year aerosol industry to disclose the amount and percentage of propellant on the label of each product and in advertising.

The law students were organized by Prof. John Banzhaf who has promoted several similar consumer projects in the past.

"Adoption of the proposed rule would eliminate the problem of deception, would impose only minimal burdens upon the aerosol industry and, more importantly, would result in estimated consumer savings of up to $219 million because of the consumer's enhanced ability to make more informed, and thus more perfect and rational purchasing decisions," the petition said.

As an example the petition cited a well known brand of hair spray which sells in aerosol form for $1.99 for 16 ounces, or 12 cents per ounce. The same product is also available in a hand pump spray bottle at $1.99 for eight ounces, or 25 cents per ounce.

The aerosol version would appear to be the cheaper on a per-ounce basis. But the aerosol can is 65 percent propellant by net weight and only 5.6 ounces of the 16 are actually hair spray.

"The actual, as opposed to perceived, unit price of the aerosol is thus 36 cents per ounce —three times the original cost estimate and 50 per cent more expensive than the nonaerosol package," the students said.

Duchess of Argyll And Her Tourist Home

LONDON (UPI) — The duchess of Argyll says it's "vulgar," but for $18 a head she'll let tourists traipse through her elegant 18th century home, drink limitless champagne and chat with one of Britain's best-known social figures.

Once a millionairess, the duchess is the latest of British nobility to decide to use tourist dollars to pay for the upkeep of their stately homes.

"We all have to change our way of life these days," she said prior to her first open house Wednesday. "It's so vulgar, but..."

Three times a week, groups of 30 tourists will pay $18 each to tour the stately house across from the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square, to sip champagne and, most important, to meet the duchess.

It's not so much the home that's the attraction, but rather the 68-year-old redhaired duchess who lives in its 17 rooms amid her collection of treasures and, especially, her memories.

True, as her brochure says, she will go down as one of Britain's most beautiful women, immortalized in the lyrics of Cole Porter's "You're the Top," and as one of the world's best dressed.

But it will be the divorce that most remember even more. After 12 years of marriage, the late duke won his suit on grounds of adultery in one of Britain's most sensational cases. The duchess was ordered to pay $120,000 in court costs.

Compromising photographs were introduced as evidence against her and, according to the presiding judge, they indicated she was a "highly sexed woman."

Now, she says, the divorce is a thing of the past. "It's more than 10 years ago," she said. "Such persecution. I have had a very long life, and I spent only four years of it getting a divorce."

The duchess invited 19 ambassadors to the opening open house "so that they can see for themselves what the poor wretched people will be getting for their money."

The original pine paneling still adorns a dining room where, the brochure says, "The Duchess of Argyll has presided over many of London's most brilliant dinner parties."

There are Venetian mirrors, priceless Chinese jade antiques, a number of original oils and a jazzy, glassy bathroom with the commode hidden by a wooden chair.

And there, at the side of the duchess' bed, is a magazine rack with the latest edition of Britain's leading scandal sheet, Private Eve.

Village Shakeup

They've got a new broom down in Ellenville and his first efforts at sweeping clean have been to the point. Mayor Jerome Elkin, citing the parlous economic conditions of the village, is primarily trimming expenses in the Police Department. He has ordered that department to give up three of its five vehicles and has told Police Chief William Trapnell to start walking the beat. Other changes included prohibiting use of official vehicles as private taxis, picking up and delivering police officers for personal reasons and cutting out coffee breaks at private restaurants for the police, requesting them to use a thermos instead.

Mayor Elkin is also selling the village manager's car, stating that he wanted to see that official get out at least once a day and meet the people face to face. Also some village employees will not come out untouched. Elkin said he felt there were too many people employed at the village hall who just did not have enough to do. "We must ask at some of them to go, and we must ask those who remain to work harder", he stated.

It may be simply a new broom sweeping clean, but here at least is one elected official who realizes that the days of the gravy train and political patronage are rapidly coming to an end due to the economic crunch.

Update on Fish

An interesting thing is afoot on the coast of Maine. The founder of a group called Coastal Marine Resources, Inc., summed it up in this remark about what he and his associates are up to: "Hopefully we'll fill the gap between the marine biologist in his lab and the poor slob who has to make his living fishing."

What John Holman and others propose is that a comprehensive inventory of marine life be made in the state's offshore waters. The last survey of the kind was made in 1929 by the federal government, and it has not been updated since. The results of the survey, with annual updates, would be made available to commercial fishermen as guidance in their operations.

In addition the group proposes introducing commercially valuable species which might thrive in Maine waters; for example, mahogany quahogs, a type of edible mollusk now harvested south of Cape Cod. It is a sound undertaking, we think—one which might prove just the shot in the arm that Maine's fishing industry needs.

WASHINGTON—Congress set aside $975 million in 1973 to make the nation's highways safer, but the effort has been a "dismal" failure.

This is the conclusion of the Center for Auto Safety, founded by Ralph Nader, which has just concluded a study of the highway safety program.

In a report that hasn't yet been released to the public, the center uses words like "misleading," "unwise" and "listless" to describe the program.

This sharply contradicts the Pollyanna picture which the Federal Highway Administration gave Congress in February of how the $975 million is being used. The center dismissed this progress report as "camouflage."

The $975 million was supposed to eliminate dangerous rail crossings, to transform "high hazard" stretches of roads, to tear down roadside obstacles, to erect better signs on poorly marked roads and to improve smaller thoroughfares.

The program was supposed to reach virtually every street in America except interstate highways and back-country car paths. The hope was that the repairs would reduce the 53,000 auto deaths, two million serious injuries and $28.8 billion accident toll each year.

According to the Center for Auto Safety, however, here is what has really happened:

Contrary to the Federal Highway Administration's claim that "railroad-highway crossing surveys . . . are completed or underway in all states," the center found two states hadn't even started the surveys and 17 states hadn't initiated a single project "to remedy their rail crossing situation." Indeed, only "$12 million of the apportioned $97 million had been obligated," the study charged.

Only $24.5 million of the $122 million set aside to improve

Chiang's Legacy is a Prosperous Taiwan

By William F. Buckley Jr.

A dozen years ago mainland China was facing one of those periodic convulsions that, in 1965, would climax in the great eruption mincingly referred to as the "Cultural" Revolution. Hopes were running high in Taiwan that the Communist regime of Mao Tse-tung had finally run up against an immovable object in the human spirit, that chaos impended, and that any month now a beachhead of Nationalist Chinese would be established to which the Chinese legions would flock in gratitude. It all sounded rather romantic and surrealistic, notwithstanding that, in Taiwan, "return to the mainland" was on everybody's lips. So that when I visited with Chiang Kai-shek, I came directly to the point.

"Mr. President, is the idea of returning to the mainland simply a pipedream?"

The Generalissimo addressed the translator—who serves today as ambassador to the United States—and spoke a few words that sounded terse.

"The President wants to know," James Shen relayed the reply, "where it is that you intend to go after leaving Taiwan?"

To this royal snub I replied tersely: "To Hong Kong, Thailand, and the Philippines."

Chiang Kai-shek's reply was marvelously Mandarin.

"The President says he is pleased to learn that you are traveling elsewhere in Asia. Because he would not want you to take only his word for it as to the seriousness of our intentions of returning to the mainland. He hopes you will ask other observers in Asia because he is confident that they will all testify to the plausibility of our return, and to our determination to do so."

That was in 1962. And indeed before the year was out the idea of an effort to cross the Taiwan strait became tangible enough to vex the Kennedy Administration, which after the Bay of Pigs had had quite enough of irredentism for one term. The rumor circulated that the 7th fleet, which on the one hand was protecting Taiwan from the mainland, would not permit Taiwan to launch an offensive against the mainland. But even that difficulty did not deter the enthusiasts in Taiwan. They reasoned that the collapse of Mao would result in an invitation to Chiang to return.

Instead, Chiang merely grew old, with grace, in his little satrapy. Like Franco, and Salazar, he never developed much of an appetite to defend himself. No memoirs issued from his palace.

He made no trips abroad. His spectacular wife did a bit of this, being more polemical by nature; but, finally, she too stopped, and after the consolidation of Mao Tse-tung following the bloody "cultural" revolution, there was nothing much to do except sit there and wait for the inevitable.

That came in 1971, when the visit by President Nixon was announced. Within a matter of months, Taiwan had been ejected from the United Nations, and a majority of the nations of the world had discontinued their diplomatic recognition of Taiwan, capitulating to Red China's ultimatum: no ambassadors from any country that keeps an ambassador in Taiwan.

Chiang Kai-shek's name is still anathema in liberal circles, so resonant was the job done on him during the 1940's. It is however the fact that he never really governed China. His ascendancy was followed by three events: 1) insurrections in the provinces; 2) an invasion by Japan; and 3) a civil war.

I don't know how Pericles would have handled the situation, under such circumstances. It is ironic that Chiang's more frequently remarked weakness—the corruption of some of his generals and associates—he could only have dealt with by exhibiting that ruthlessness which, although it is theoretically deplored, is sneakily admired: such ruthlessness as Mao's and Ho Chi Minh's. One supposes that if only Chiang had killed more people, he'd have died in Peiping.

Some day, people will get around to noticing that in the last 25 years of his life, Chiang presided over an island of 15 million people who have enjoyed substantial liberties and great material progress, during the period that Mao tortured his country into the creation of Mao-men.

HARD WORK NEVER KILLS ANYONE WHO SUPERVISES IT

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Souvenirs From South Vietnam

overpowering plane in creation so that we could claim we'd set a new record for mercy missions.

When it crashed and, once again, we discovered we'd killed the people we'd set out to save, we screamed sabotage. Sabotage or not, it would not be the first time in our long Judeo-Christian history that the Lord has countenanced the slaughter of holy innocents to instruct the rulers of men in virtue.

The incoming, conquering Reds are not going to bloodbathe infants and children with no political convictions. They will feed them and grow them up to be good Communists. It's those many, small, non-powerful South Vietnamese adults who took our part in the war who are in serious danger. But no Operation Babylift for them. What do you want to bet that the only South Vietnamese grownups who'll get flown out are the murderers from the political police and the numbered-Swiss-bank-account boys?

Dr. K. didn't think up Babylift. No, that was either an invention of the childless couples lobby or the suburban guilty-ridden, or the remnants of the old fight-to-win crowd. When they run out of babies, they'll switch to airlifting puppydogs. So, it's no con game that the Doctor of Diplomacy is playing, and he's right about his critics not having a monopoly on wisdom and morality. Nonetheless, the war for freedom that he and his former boss began in 1970 ends five years later in cannibalism. Shall we blame that on insufficient congressional appropriations, and them mark Kissinger down as one more confused, rampantly misunderstood and misunderstanding American?

If the Angel of Death had been sent to teach the armed, angry and alarmed Americans that there is a difference between morality and the public proclamation of good intentions, it was lost on our Secretary of State. "For God's sake," he cried out from the irrigated Palm Springs desert to a press conference while his superior went golfing, "we ought to stop talking as if one side had the monopoly of wisdom, morality and insight, and that serious people (meaning himself) trying to deal with this problem are trying to run a confidence game."

Only the optimists think Dr. Kissinger is trying to run a confidence game. The pessimists believe he no longer knows what game he's trying to run or even what ballpark he's playing his game in.

If you think Dr. Kissinger is playing a con game, then you can believe he thought up Operation Babylift for some sinister but sane reason, such as he could use it to get votes in Congress for more military aid. A con man might have thought up baby lifts to distract people from considering that it's not the orphans who really need the saving.

In which case Dr. Kissinger will have to live, like the rest of us, with the words of the South Vietnamese army lieutenant on the day the C-5A went down and the orphans were crisped: "It is nice to see you Americans taking home souvenirs of our country as you leave—China elephants and orphans. Too bad some of them broke today, but we have plenty more."

The Reader Writes

Open Letter

Mayor Francis R. Koenig
City Hall
Kingston, New York 12401

Dear Mayor Koenig:

We have reason to think that Kingston will have many visitors during the Bicentennial year—we are already known as a beautiful and historic city. With visitors in mind, as well as the need for preservation and improvement in certain areas, the Ulster Garden Club is submitting some proposals to you and the Common Council.

1. Improvement of the information center at the Thruway entrance to the city. Many states and cities across the country have found that attractive information centers are an incentive to visitors to stop and acquaint themselves with available facilities and cultural offerings. These can be places where listings, brochures, etc., can be handed out, thereby eliminating the need for more costly and unsightly forms of advertising.

2. Purchase by the city of the triangle of land at the juncture of Hurley and Washington Avenues with the idea of making this a minipark of trees and grass. The fine trees are already there; all that is needed is some cleaning up and this will make an attractive entrance to Kingston as well as more open space for residents and employees in that area.

3. More frequent and intensive clean-up of litter. We are not thinking now of trash collections but of the throw-away litter which collects in the streets and open areas. This might even be a possible public works project. And could there be some kind of educational program to try to persuade our people not to litter?

4. Stronger sign regulation, particularly of billboards and roof-top signs. As a first step could there not be enforcement of the directive now in existence, i.e., elimination of moving, revolving, and flashing signs? (Prohibiting revolving signs would also save energy, which could certainly be put to better use.)

5. The extended use of underground wiring in the city, as has already been done in certain parts of the Stockade area.

6. Reactivation of the City Beautification Committee. This committee should be given the power to approve such things as trash containers, lighting fixtures, historic markers, etc. It would have the time to study various available choices and select the most suitable.

We think Kingston can be one of the most beautiful cities that Bicentennial visitors will remember from their travels, and that adoption of our proposals can help to make it so. We hope you will agree, and give them your serious consideration.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Robert F. Moseley

Lockstep

Editor, The Freeman:

It's truly sickening to see how morally and academically corrupt the press and media in this country have really become. I am referring to the massive aggression by China and North Vietnam against South Vietnam.

Here is a small country, whose people are surely not good fighters, that's had the guts to stand against the giants of the Communist world; and the news media in this country can only whine about corruptness of the Thieu Government,—Hogwash!

I expect to hear the New York Times and or Washington Post spreading this pseudo-Communist garbage. But Mr. Editor of The Daily Freeman, before you "lockstep" with these giants of objectivity answer this one question: What would these newspapers and the anti-war crowd be hollering if South Vietnam was attacking Hanoi rather than vis-a-vis?

Editor: The Freeman

I am taking the liberty of writing to ask you to inform your readers that the ancient and famous old Dutch house, known as the Ver Planck residence or Mount Gulian, that burned down 30 years ago, is being rebuilt and restored exactly as it was.

The builders have done a magnificent job in making a replica of it. It was there that General von Steuben of German origin, the drillmaster of Washington's Army, had his headquarters for a long time during the Revolutionary War. As you know, General von Steuben helped train, organize and turned a non-descript army into a fine fighting force. He came over here of his own accord. He stayed here, became an American citizen, was President of the New York State Society of Cincinnati and received large land grants from New York State around Ulster.

In addition, the Society of Cincinnati was born at von Steuben's headquarters May 13, 1783 and General Washington was made the first President which position he held until his death. It was composed of officers who served in the Continental Army and by the oldest son by direct descent later on, and is one of the oldest and best known of all patriotic organizations.

It is proposed to make this restored old Dutch house into a nationwide museum of the Revolutionary War in which von Steuben will be greatly honored. To make the building completely fireproof, protected against theft and to make the grounds and the old barn and environment beautiful, it requires a minimum of $50,000. It will be open to the public on the afternoon of June 14, 1975.

On the eve of the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, I appeal to all people of German origin to contribute as a tribute to General von Steuben, to the Mount Gulian Fund, 145 Sterling Street, Beacon, N.Y. 12508.

There are 30 million Americans of German origin and most of them would be willing to cooperate in this tribute to this great Freedom Fighter. I am not of German origin but my ancestor Col. Nicholas Fish who had a very fine record during the Revolutionary War was the brigade adjutant of Gen. von Steuben and was a great personal friend of his after the war.

If your readers gave $1 or $2 like many others, it would raise the necessary $50,000 to this non-profit, tax exempt fund. I served in Congress for 25 years from the District where von Steuben had his headquarters and is my sons district at the present time.

With kind regards,

It is time for our legislators to vote on our State budget for the coming year. There is more involved than just monetary considerations. I am urging the readers to consider a very important matter in the lives of the workers of New York State. Assembly bills A6533 and A6534 would continue the State's running of the Department of Occupational Safety and Health, rather than have the Federal government take over.

A few facts . . . New York State has 443 inspectors working for Occupational Safety and Health . . . The Federal staff consists of 64 men. In 1974 the New York State Department performed over 300,000 inspections, to the Federal 4,500. New York has had many years of experience in the field of industrial safety. They have been "in business" since 1880. The Federal program was only begun in 1971 and didn't come into operation until a year later.

New York State divides its department into four main areas of specialization . . . those being factory inspection, boilers, construction and industrial hygiene. The Federal department does not divide its duties. Can we expect one man to be an expert on so varied a combination of responsibilities and safety codes? Another consideration is that New York State maintains two laboratories for industrial hygiene. The Federal government runs two for the entire United States. Should we be willing to give up our far superior system for that run by the Federal government?

In my estimation, the Federal government has failed in the area of safety. We can examine what occurred in the State of Wisconsin. The Federal safety program reported their state-run program in Dec. 1972. After one year, there were 30 deaths and 6,825 disabling injuries above the number experienced under state inspection. New York is four times larger than Wisconsin. If followed through actuarially, we would experience 120 more deaths and over 27,000 more disabling injuries. Is this fair to the industry of New York, to the families left without breadwinners, to all of those who will be left without eyes, fingers, limbs or suffer other permanent injuries?

According to our Governor, to do away with this vital State program will save the taxpayer 2.6 million dollars annually. How much more will be spent in additional compensation payments for death and injury? It's not worth it! The rights of all workers in factories, construction, carnivals, mines, shops, etc. need to be protected. They need safe, clean and inspected places of work. We need the New York State Department of Occupational Safety and Health. Hopefully our State elected officials can be convinced of this very important matter.

Yours truly,
Faith S. Oland

John Haag, who portrays the old tramp, Davies, discusses an item with his brother, Aston, played by Stephen Weinberg in the Hamlet Theater production of The Caretaker.

'Caretaker'... Fascinating, Wildly Comic

By Tobie Geertsema

In "The Caretaker," the frosty white glare of Harold Pinter's genius soars to its finest height. None of what happens in this contemporary allegory, which opened at The Hamlet Theatre in West Hurley last weekend, is very nice. But it is fascinating. For, while it is at times sinister and brutal, it is always wildly comic.

It is doubtful that anyone who sees it will know what "The Caretaker" means. But that won't matter. In spite of the fact that nothing is what it seems, and that there is no key that will unlock the door to Pinter's meaning, "The Caretaker" engages audience attention throughout.

Frankly, the "Search for Meaning" has always impressed us as a crashing bore — a pseudo-intellectual cocktail sport at best. It should be enough that the dialogue is sharp and incisive; that the acting, set and direction are impressive; that the audience laughs. As presented by The Hamlet Theatre, all this is achieved in "The Caretaker."

The most profitable and rich way of regarding "The Caretaker," perhaps, is to understand it as the struggle in the jungle of existence. All the characters in this West London house, this all male house, are taking the mickey out of each other. They are trying to destroy each other by mockery. The rules of the game, though, are that when you are putting somebody on, you must not let the other person know that you are doing it. In other words, it's specifically a Cockney thing — very cruel. But it's also very funny in spite of the fact that they're constantly diminishing each other.

In this household of three men, Davies the old caretaker, embodies everything that is the old male — the old bull of the herd, of the environment, and he is now totally failed. He would have us believe that, once, he ate his dinner off the best of plates — but he's probably lying.

Perhaps he has always been a liar and a sly conniver. As

In the Hamlet production, John Haag has been cast as the ragged old man and, for an actor as young as Haag, he gives a remarkably good performance of a character many, many years his senior. He makes of the simple, everyday routines of putting on and pulling off both shoes and to catch all the delicious nuances of his part even eight rows back in the auditorium. Perhaps, in future performances, Haag's old man should be a noisier, louder, more dictatorial old man.

The other two males in this household are brothers — one lonely, ex-patient of a mental ing provides most of the key moments, and one feels his brooding presence continually even when he is offstage. The scene in which he describes his life before he "went away" and tells the old man his experiences in the hospital is moving and heart-breaking; holds the audience in complete thrall.

Jim Theologus, a newcomer to the area acting scene, proves the master of his role as the often tough, occasionally tender younger brother. He is especially fine at those times when his mind must seem to work in the manner of a piece of computerized machinery — and fine, too, when he waxes more sentimental.

Alan Croce has directed with a stealthy flourish, playing up the dialogue's counterpoint, yet never emphasizing to heavily points best left to discovery of the imagination. He has encouraged his actors to allow this story of merciless struggle to emerge through their own very individual, very uncompromising, very funny, very shocking roles.

One must make note, too, of the set — one of the most inspired that has been mounted locally in years. Junk-filled and exuding the dust and decay of centuries, its bare furnishings and mountains of knick-knacks establish the perfect background for the involved relationships expressed in the sweat, assault and noise of the characters involved.

As a play in which people are caught up in deadly hypocrisies, as a drama that emphasizes the lies-by-rote they tell others, "The Caretaker" is sheer theatre mastery. It will continue on-stage at The Hamlet Theatre, Route 28A, West Hurley, each and every Friday and Saturday night at 8:30 throughout April.

the play unrolls, we learn he has been living under an assumed name (for purposes never made clear); has been waiting for endless years "for the weather to break" in order to redeem his identification papers in another city; is now (and probably in retrospect has always been) a sniveling, weak-kneed hypocrite.

trousers an hilarious ritual of old age. He converts a scene in which piles of junk must be moved around on stage into a veritable circus. His only problem is that his role calls for the thin frail voice of advancing age. This fact and his almost unvaried delivery work against him in a room as large as that which houses the Hamlet Theatre. It is difficult

Speaker for Northern Dutchess Day Care Center Annual Meeting

Miss Cornelia Goldsmith, one of the founders of the day care movement, will speak at the annual meeting of the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center Association in Red Hook on April 17 at 8 p.m.

Miss Goldsmith was born in St. Paul, Minnesota in 1892. She attended Teacher Training School there and taught in public and private kindergartens in Minnesota and other parts of the country for many years. She later graduated from Columbia University and taught at Vassar College. She served as director of the Day Care Unit of the New York Department of Health from 1943 to 1963. In 1964, she became executive director of the National Association for the Education of Young Children in Washington, D.C. for three years. Miss Goldsmith is the author of many articles on early childhood education and a book published in 1972 called "Better Day Care for the Young Child Through a Merged Governmental and Non-Governmental Effort", which is the story of her New York experience. She has served as a Head Start consultant and remains active in an advisory capacity to several groups. Her experience with children includes two daughters and six granddaughters of her own.

People interested in attending the meeting should call Denise Velardi at Red Hook as soon as possible.

Community Concert Association Plans Captain's Tea Sunday

The Captain's Tea of the Community Concert Association will be held Sunday, Apr. 13 at 3 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, 72 Highland Avenue, Kingston.

Purpose of the tea is to inform new workers of the association with details for the forthcoming campaign scheduled for the week of May 5.

In addition to the new workers, all captains of the association will be present to distribute worker's kits and materials for the membership drive.

Mrs. George Wert, campaign chairman, and Mrs. John McCullough, membership secretary, will instruct those present in procedures of obtaining memberships. Both Mrs. Wert and Mrs. McCullough stress that entrance to the concerts is by membership card only. No single admissions are ever sold at the door. Therefore, it is essential that anyone interested in attending the concerts must obtain their membership during this one-week campaign.

Memberships for the entire series of three concerts for adults will be $12, while student memberships are priced at $5.

The 1975-76 season will be an exceptionally interesting one, for the Concert Association has announced that it will be presenting the prize-winning musical "1776," the magnificently staged and stunningly original musical.

This production, in honor of America's Bicentennial, has received the coveted New York Drama Critics Circle Award as well as the Tony Award.

In addition, the National Arts Centre Orchestra of Canada will be presented in a full evening's concert at the Community Theater. The orchestra has met with meteoric success within four years, for it has made its name not only in Canada but in the United States as well as Europe and the Soviet Union.

It has been hailed as a first-rate ensemble by critics.

The Manhattan Operatic Trio promises to be a concert to delight all, for the young artists will combine their talents to present an evening filled with opera highlights.

Anyone interested in obtaining memberships may call Mrs. Wert and Mrs. McCullough for further information.

Schoonmaker-Werner Marriage Is Announced

Shelby Isabel Schoonmaker, daughter of Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker Jr. of Kingston and Claryville, and the late John D. Schoonmaker Jr., was married April 5 to Charles P. Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton P. Werner of Orange, N.J.

The Rev. Victor Baer, DD, officiated at the ceremony in the Chapel of the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York City.

Derek Schoonmaker gave his sister in marriage.

Mrs. Helen S. Brown, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Nicholas P. Greville served as best man.

Mrs. Werner, an investment manager with Scudder, Stevens & Clark, attended St. Agnes School in Albany, and was graduated from The Shipley School and Bennett College. She made her debut in 1963 at the Mid-Hudson Cotillion. Her father was president of Island Dock, Inc. in Kingston.

Mr. Werner, an assistant vice president with the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York, received his A.B. degree from Lafayette College and a graduate degree from the Université de Toulouse in France which he attended as a Fulbright Scholar. He received his MA from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and served as a Lieutenant in the United States Army. His father is an engineering consultant.

Smrstik-Melahn Betrothal Told

Mrs. Walter Kramer and Milton Smrstik of Seattle, Wash., announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Ada Smrstik, to Kevin Charles Melahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Melahn, Flower Hill, Kingston.

Miss Smrstik and Mr. Melahn are graduates of the Parsons School of Design, New York City, and are employed by the advertising firm of Olgive & Mather, Madison Avenue, New York.

A June 14th wedding is planned.

Week of April 13 Designated as AFS Week

The week of April 13 has been designated by Mayor Francis Koenig as AFS Week. American Field Service International Scholarships, Inc., is the largest and best known student exchange program in the world.

The goals of AFS are to promote peace and understanding among people of the world.

In conjunction with AFS Week, Kingston High School will host students from Morocco, Belgium, Guatemala, Australia, and Switzerland, as well as Kingston Chapter's Klaus Eisterer of Austria. These young people will attend classes, along with their host brothers and sisters at KHS, and will entertain for an International Dinner Friday, Apr. 18 at 7 p.m. at Holiday Inn, Kingston.

The work and objectives of AFS will be outlined, and those attending will have an opportunity to meet the foreign AFS students as well as Luisa Granitto, the Kingston AFS student selected to spend the summer abroad.

Highlighting the entertainment for the dinner will be Kingston High School Choir under the direction of Brian Steeves, and Kingston High School Brass Quartet under the direction of Anthony Hummel.

On Saturday, Apr. 19, there will be a tour of the Stockade area conducted by Friends of Historic Kingston.

Reservations for the International Dinner may be made by contacting Mrs. Carl Kaminsky of Woodstock, or any board member. Chairman of the event is John T aylor.

Award-Winning Film to Be Shown

The award-winning film, Brand New Day, will be shown at the Stone Ridge Library on Friday, May 23, at 8 p.m.

Showing of the film is under the sponsorship of the Mid-Hudson Library System.

Jane Aaron, well-known film maker who has participated in national and international films, was accorded honors for this film at the Sinking Creek Film Celebration.

The film is animated and tells of a young woman who starts her day by raising her windowshade to a beautifully changing scene. What follows is unusual and amusing.

The library program in Stone Ridge will include a demonstration by Ms. Aaron in the techniques of animation. Her past work has appeared on educational television, including various episodes of Sesame Street.

The Mid-Hudson Library System, a service center aiding 64 libraries in Ulster, Dutchess, Columbia, Greene and Putnam Counties, has organized this event, together with future presentations by five other film makers, under a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts.

Brand New Day also is scheduled for the Mahopac Public Library Wednesday, April 16, at 7:30 p.m. and at the Millbrook Library Wednesday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m.

There is only one you. How thrilling to have the real you translated into an exquisite ring, pin or earrings! Designed and created for you alone, with fine craftsmanship. The Chapel Couriers of Kingston (l-r), Gary Decker, Fred Burnett, Ray Newton and Ray Cadmus. (Freeman photo)

Men's Night Dinner Scheduled

A special treat is in store for those attending the annual Men's Night dinner of Kingston Christian Women's Club on Friday, Apr. 25 at 7 p.m. in the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen. Entertaining will be the Chapel Couriers of Kingston, a group formed about a year ago, featuring Fred Burnett, Ray Cadmus, Gary Decker and Ray Newton. Singing with the quartet will be Mrs. John Althiser Jr., and accompaniment will be provided by Mrs. Robert Miller. George Schwab, Herta Saul, Ken Pectal and Paul Fox will entertain with singing and guitar music. A "Dutch Treat" has been selected for the 1975 theme. Decorations, skits and special features will correspond to the theme. Guest speaker will be Bruno Militano, a public relations representative from West Sayville. Raymond Beecher of Coxackie, chairman of the Greene County Revolutionary Bicentennial Committee and president of the Greene County Historical Society, will present "Artifacts of the History of Hudson Valley Dutch Families." A retired educator, he has enjoyed a lifelong avocation of history and antiques. His life has been a history of service to various non-profit groups. The New York State American Revolutionary Bicentennial Committee earlier this year released Mr. Beecher's Volume, "Letter from a Revolution," for statewide distribution. Many hours of his volunteer time have been given in the development of the Bronx Museum in Coxackie. Mrs. Beecher is equally involved in similar events and will accompany her husband to the dinner. Reservations may be made with Mrs. John Arold of Kingston.

Sick of Being Tag-Along.

By Abigail Van Buren

N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

RABBY: I read you column all the time and usually agree with you, but the answer you gave the mother who had a running battle with her teenage children because they wouldn't keep their rooms picked up is wrong. Dead wrong!

I am a 16-year-old boy who came to live with my father and stepmother last summer. Before I came here, I had to jump from my door to the bed (if I could see it). Now, my room is so neat and orderly, it looks like the operating rooms of a hospital.

I fought it as long as I could, but my stomach and my stepmother finally won. I got no breakfast until my bed was made. She put a clothes basket in my closet, and nothing got laundered unless it was in that basket. Everything left on the floor went into a "mess box" in the garage, and I had to go there to retrieve it, which was a lot of trouble. On my day for the car, unless my room was vacuumed, no keys!

I'm glad my stepmother didn't do what you advised that other mother to do ("Say no more, keep their doors closed, and enter their rooms only to change the beds, and rake it once a week. When they get tired of living in that mess, they'll clean it up. Until then, don't let them aggravate you. It's not worth it.")

Dear Abby

Want to know something, Abby? I've come to like it this way. I can take my friends into my room now.

PROUD OF ROOM
AND WELL-FED

DEAR PROUD: Since your stepmother's formula worked for you, it's worth recommending. Thank her for hatching the idea, and thank you for sharing it.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that widows aren't asked over to their sisters' homes for a visit now and then? Are they afraid we might steal their husbands?

Nonsense! I don't want anyone's husband. But I notice that when someone in the family has a birthday or a shower, I am first on the list. I am called and asked to please pick up this or that because "You have the time."

It would be so nice to be invited over just once for a visit (I don't mean for dinner) on a Sunday or an evening just because someone wanted my company.

I never thought this could happen to me, but it did. Then my sister said: "If anything happens to my husband, I'll move in with you."

I thought: "NEVER!"

ANOTHER WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: If she says it again, why don't you say it aloud? It would do you a lot of good to say it. And her, to hear it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old. Last year I fell in love with a young man who was 20. Our relationship gradually became more serious. We talked of marriage, but made no definite plans.

He was recently killed in an auto accident. It was then that I learned to my great surprise that he had taken out a life insurance policy and made ME the beneficiary. (The amount I am to get is $50,000.)

All the family he had was a mother and two brothers. Some people feel that I should sign the money over to his mother.

I don't think I am being selfish, but I think that since he left it to me, I should have it. Neither his other nor I is financially handicapped.

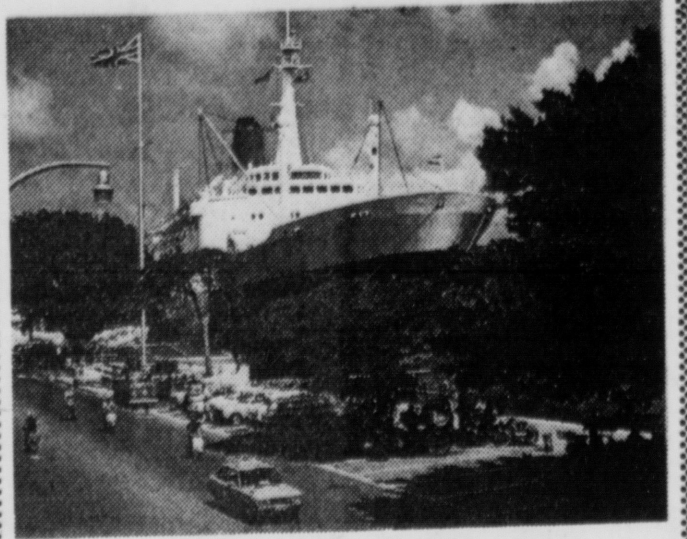

Who do you think the money belongs to?

"WAITING"
DEAR WAITING: Since it was left to you, it belongs to you.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Installation Dinner Held

Parents Without Partners, Kingston Chapter No. 383, held an installation dinner recently at Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen. Heading the organization this year will be (l-r) Lee Webster, vice president; Maureen Bushman, membership director; Lee Fix, president; Elyne Hines, recording secretary. Other officers include Karen Baron, treasurer, and Jean Clark, recording secretary. The organization, which meets the second Wednesday of each month at the Bonanza Branch of Heritage Savings Bank, was organized for people who are separated from their spouses, whether through death or divorce, and those parents who have never married. Informal get-togethers and activities are geared for both adults and children. On May 31, members will participate in the Flea Market at Kingston Plaza. Details about the organization are available from Maureen Bushman of Stone Ridge.

Guest Speaker Selected For Program at Temple Emanuel

Leonard Hershoff, president of Zephaniah Lodge, B'nai B'rith Men, announces that Stuart Seader, counseling psychologist and lecturer, will be guest speaker at Temple Emanuel Sunday, Apr. 13 at 10 a.m. His topic will be "Jewish Youth."

B'nai B'rith, in its concern for the future of American Jewry, counsels thousands of Jewish youth each year to help them find a place for themselves in the future.

Stuart Seader was formerly associate dean of students at Hofstra University on Long Island. While at Hofstra, he helped formulate and coordinate the unique program of higher education for the physically disabled young people.

He was previously associated with the counseling staffs of the Laboratory of Psychological Studies, Stevens Institute of Technology, the YMCA Counseling and Testing Service, and the Hofstra University Counseling Center. He was also on the staff of New College at Hofstra as a lecturer in Psychology. Presently, he is chief consultant for B'nai B'rith Career and Counseling Services of New York.

The program is open to the community. A question-answer period will take place afterwards. Refreshments will be served.

Balkan Dance Workshop

Sandy Faxon, one of the few women in the country capable of teaching Balkan dance styling for women, will give a workshop Friday at Woodstock Town Hall. From 8 to 8:30 p.m., there will be simple request dancing. The workshop will begin at 8:30 and continue until about 10:30. Many of the dances taught will be basic dances so those people with little dance experience will be able to participate in the entire evening. Different types of Balkan foods and wine will be served. Local people familiar with Balkan songs will provide accompaniment.

The event is being sponsored by Ron Sanders and the Novo Folk Dancers as part of the weekly folk dance activities at Woodstock Town Hall.

'Cinderella' Canceled

Hudson Valley Philharmonic subscribers are being notified that this weekend's scheduled performances of Rossini's "Cinderella," to have been performed by the Syracuse Opera Company and the Philharmonic, have been canceled.

The Syracuse Opera—faced with the same financial difficulties confronting such other major arts organizations as the Metropolitan Opera, the Dallas Symphony, the New York State Artpark—was not able to guarantee fulfillment of its contract with HVP.

In lieu of the opera, subscribers are being issued tickets to performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's "HMS Pinafore" to be presented by the Manhattan Savoyards and HVP on May 18 and 19 at Poughkeepsie High School and Kingston Community Theatre. Tickets are available at the Philharmonic office.

McElrath Named

KINGSTON
Two appointments to the Kingston Fire Department were announced Wednesday by Mayor Francis R. Koenig following a meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners held Tuesday night.

James McElrath of 58 Clinton Avenue was named acting lieutenant, with permanent appointment pending the outcome of a civil service examination. McElrath has been on the force 27 years.

Robert Sweeney of 61 Elmendorf Street was named a provisional fire fighter.

The lieutenant's post became vacant recently during the appointment of Lt. Philip J. Ahi as acting captain of the department.

Familiar Sight

Former New York Yankee star Mickey Mantle, who hit the first home run ever in the Astrodome ten years ago, did it again Wednesday night at birthday party for Houston's indoor sports palace. Mantle hit the first pitch out of the park, just like he used to in the old days. (UPI)

Marvin Pleases Mom

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — "My mother's been telling me how bad I've been playing here," Marvin Barnes explained. "She came all the way down from Rhode Island to see this game and make sure I play good. The coach has been gettin' on me, too. I wanted to do good for them."

Marvin Barnes made at least two people very happy Wednesday night as he celebrated his being named ABA Rookie of the Year with a 37-point, 18-rebound performance that led St. Louis to a 115-97 romp over New York, evening the playoff series at a game apiece and giving the young Spirits their first win against the Nets this year after 12 straight defeats.

"We haven't done half the job yet, though," Barnes cautioned. "We've got to win both the games at home or else this doesn't mean anything. Right now it means a lot. We proved to ourselves we can beat them. We just have to do it three more times."

Julius Erving summed up the feeling he and his teammates shared after the debacle: "It was the best of times for them and the worst of times for us. We were just plain flat."

Erving had the worst of times—a career low six points on 3-of-14 field goal shooting and only six rebounds.

Sparked by Barnes, the Spirits raced to a 10-2 lead in the first two minutes. Nothing New York Coach Kevin Loughery tried could put a dent in their attack, not even getting thrown out of the game with his second technical early in the third period.

St. Louis, which led 29-20 after one period and 53-38 at the half, continued to run away in the third period. The fact that New York went to the free throw line only once in the first half compared to 13 times for St. Louis didn't set too well with Loughery either but the comic highlight of the Nets' frustration came six minutes after he was ejected.

Wendell Ladner was trying to inject some life in his listless teammates. Instead, he injected levity into what was already a laughter. He raced madly around the court, chasing the ball and taking wild shots to get his team moving. He made a good steal, then, losing his sneaker, threw the ball out of bounds.

Ladner tried to put his sneaker back on but looked up to see the Spirits moving the ball up court quickly. Waving his sneaker in his hand, Ladner caught up to the play then threw it at the ball. A technical was called and seven seconds later the third period ended with the Nets trailing by 27 points. They soon fell behind by 31 and never got closer than 17 the rest of the way.

Maurice Lucas, another of St. Louis' fine rookies, had 21 rebounds and 14 points and Freddie Lewis added 28 points. Larry Kenon paced New York with 28 points.

In other ABA playoff action, Utah rode to its first victory in Salt Lake City following two losses in Denver with a 122-108 thumping of the Nuggets. Rookie Moses Malone showed the way for the Stars with an awesome 30-point, 32-rebound performance.

Bulls Check Archibald

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls' Norm Van Lier drew praise from Coach Dick Motta for the defensive job he did on the Kansas City Kings' Nate Archibald. Van Lier said he didn't do it himself.

"One man doesn't stop Archibald," the Bulls' guard said after his team beat the Kings 95-89 Wednesday night. "I didn't stop Tiny. I tried to force him and Nate Thurmond or Tom Boerwinkle helped me in the lane and Bob Love helped me on the wings. "You don't stop Archibald every game. He'll be back. He's tough and they're a very good team."

Archibald was held to 12 points. The Kings never led in the game but they almost overcame a 14-point deficit, rallying within one point twice in the third period and within two points with three minutes to play in the game.

But a pair of offensive fouls on Scott Wedman and Archibald denied tying baskets to the Kings and in the final minute, the Bulls grabbed two offensive rebounds, running out almost all of the 24-second clock each time to keep control.

Motta discounted the importance of the offensive fouls, saying "Love was called four times for offensive fouls and every time he lost a basket."

Instead, he wanted to talk about Van Lier.

"I thought Norm followed the defensive game plan as well as he has in any game since I've been coaching him," Motta said. "We held them six below the average for the season and we played good defense. We shot well, particularly in the first period, and in the third period we had some great shots and couldn't get them to drop."

Kings Coach Phil Johnson said the Kings "missed a couple of key shots" to take away the chance to win near the finish, but added, "We're not ready to fold yet. This is going to be a close series."

Love netted 38 points to tie his career playoff high and lead the Bulls to victory, the first ever for Chicago in nine playoff series openers. Larry McNeill paced the Kings with 22 points.

Reds Shatter Marshall Myth

By UPI

As pitching coach Larry Shepard of the Cincinnati Reds said during the winter, the Los Angeles Dodgers may have to revise their thinking about iron man reliever Mike Marshall.

He's not the "automatic winner" some experts believe. Shepard made his comments after Marshall pitched in a record 106 games, posted a 15-12 record and had 21 saves for the Dodgers in 1974 and was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner.

"If you look closely at some of the games he pitched, you'll see the situation rapidly deteriorated after he took over," said Shepard. "At times the Dodgers seemed to pitch him merely for the sake of proving that he had an iron arm."

The Reds made their pitching coach look good Wednesday night when they scored two runs off Marshall in the ninth inning to beat the Dodgers for the second straight game, 4-3. Could it be significant that Marshall has lost two of the three last games in which he relieved—going back to last October when he served up the home run ball to Joe Rudi which gave the Oakland A's their victory over the Dodgers in the decisive fifth game of the World Series?

Marshall, who took over in the seventh, carried a 3-2 lead into the bottom of the ninth Wednesday night but Ken Griffey touched off Cincinnati's winning rally with a triple. Darrel Chaney singled to score Griffey with the tying run, went to second on a sacrifice and scored the winning run on Dave Concepcion's single.

Andy Messersmith shut out the Reds until the sixth inning when Ed Armbrister doubled and scored on one of three singles by Joe Morgan. The Reds cut the Dodgers' early margin to 3-2 in the seventh when Tony Perez scored on a bases-filled sacrifice fly by Chaney.

St. Louis defeated Montreal 4-0 and Houston walloped Atlanta 14-2 in the only other National League games. San Francisco at San Diego was rained out.

Cardinals 4, Expos 0

Bob Forsch pitched a two-hitter and batterymate Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly as St. Louis tagged Steve Rogers with the loss. Forsch faced the minimum 27 batters in the game as both Montreal baserunners were wiped out in double plays. He struck out six and walked none.

Astros 14, Braves 2

Three hits each by Doug Rader, Roger Metzger and Enos Cabell paced Houston's 15-hit attack on Atlanta's Ron Reed and four relievers. The Astros broke open the game with a six-run burst in the fourth inning and added eight runs in the seventh. Dave Roberts, who went the last 4 1-3 innings for the Astros, received credit for the win.

Louise Colombino: 607

Louise Colombino, a consistent shooter in the 500 plateau, rolled her first 600 of the season this week, splicing games of 174, 200 and 233 for 607 in the Women's Junior Major League. It ranks 13th among the 26 series of 600 rolled by area women this season.

George Brown paced a trio of 600-shooters in the City Minor with 204-244-642. Rich Sickler decked 612 and Bosco Tomaszewski 605.

Ben Sanford led the Sunday Nite Pinbenders with 617. Bob McGee had 635 in the Country Squires.

Carol Bahr paced the Bowlerama Woman's Major with 211-575. Joan Smith had 543, Mary Gibbons 534, Kathy DeCicco 218-514 and Betty Sheightner 510.

Bonnie Lindhorst's 205, 216-566 led a parade of 500s in the Ferraro Tri-Major, as Lorraine Ferraro had 554, Louise Colombino 533, Lorraine Schell 520, Arlene Wilson 513, Jean Gavin 510. Doris Hoffman posted 219-549 and Helen Boice 505 in the Friendship League. Rita Hammer's 213-536 led the Monday Matinee, where June Van Kleck was runnerup on 210-529.

WOMEN'S JUNIOR MAJOR — Louise Colombino 205, 233-607; Corrine Zickler 525, Bea Albright 501, Janet Norton 494, Jan Best 490, team highs: Lake Katrine, Supertite 662, TP 11, 1958.

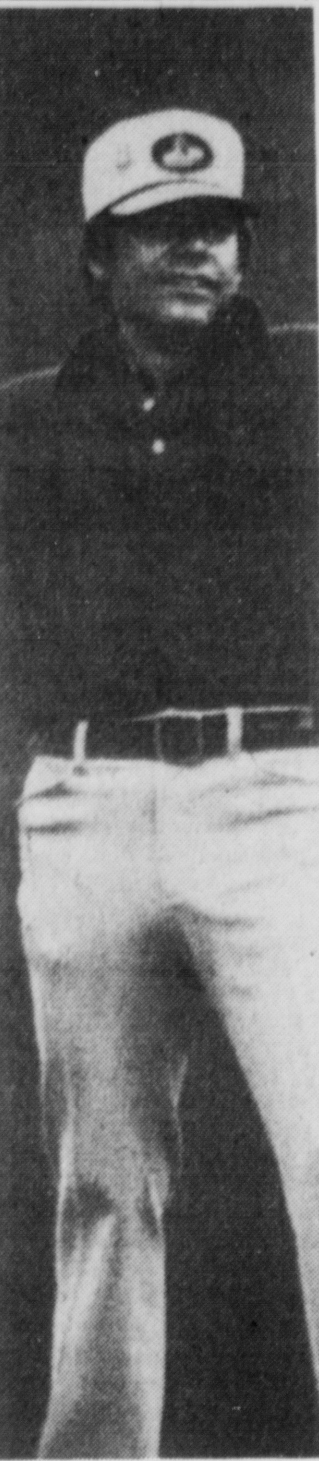

FRIDAY NITE FUN — Burt Cudney 545, Marshall Amarello 539, John Loughlin 523, Earl Wright 520, Fran Gallagher 457, Edna Heideron 441, Mabel Cudney 428, Janette Johnston 415, team highs: 4 Tops, 746-2095.

Masters: Jack vs. The World

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — It was Jack Nicklaus against the world today when the Masters golf tournament began its 39th run through the azales and dogwoods.

That world includes Lee Elder, the first black ever to play in this prestigious tournament.

Nicklaus, seeking his fifth Masters crown and 15th "major" championship, was everybody's favorite but his own — and he was just being modest.

"Sure, I should be close, but it's not up to me to say I'm the man to beat," said the 35-year-old king of the golf links.

"People had better not overlook Gary Player. He's the defending champion and he's a very real threat anytime he tees it up."

"And how about Tom Weiskopf? He's been close here a lot of times before (second in three of the past six years) and came in here after winning at Greensboro with some fine golf."

Nicklaus also cautioned that although Lee Trevino has never played well in the Masters, "Lee's quite capable of playing this course if he wants to. He's won other major championships and it's just a matter of time before he gets going here."

Oddly enough, Nicklaus did not include Johnny Miller in that group even though Miller has won more tournaments (11) and more money ($450,000) than any other golfer the past 15 months.

"I think Gary and Lee are better golfers than Johnny," said Nicklaus. "As far as I am concerned, winning the major tournaments is the real test. Gary's won eight, Lee five and Johnny only one."

Elder has had the lion's share of attention here this week because of his unique situation and he'll continue to get a lot of attention as long as he plays well enough to stay in the tournament.

But Elder has not played well since earning a Masters invitation last April by winning the Monsanto Open in Pensacola, Fla., and many doubt that he'll make the 36-hole cut, least of all be in contention for the championship.

But the 40-year-old Elder wanted it understood that he isn't out to prove anything beyond his ability to play golf.

"I've played bad before, and I've played good before, in major championships and in other tournaments," said Elder. "So, no matter how good or how bad I play, it will be for myself, and I won't be embarrassed."

Elder was scheduled to tee off at 11:15 a.m. EDT with Gene Littler, the former U.S. Open champion who came back from a bout with cancer, as his playing partner.

Other key tee-off times included Trevino at 11:36, Nicklaus at 12:04; Player at 12:32, and Weiskopf at 1 p.m.

Arnold Palmer, only other man besides Nicklaus to win four Masters, finds himself in the role of "sentimental favorite" this year since the 45-year-old Palmer has not won here since 1964.

Being the real favorite here is old hat for Nicklaus.

He was the youngest Masters champion when he won for the first time in 1963 at age 23; the only man to win two Masters in a row when he won in 1965 and 1966; and matched Palmer's four victories when he won again in 1972.

He has also tied for second twice and for third, fourth and fifth once each.

"Jack has to be the favorite," said Miller. "He's always the guy to beat, and he plays better than ever in the majors."

Trevino agreed with Player and Miller.

"He can be beat. But anytime he enters a golf tournament he is the individual to beat."

There's no doubt that Jack Nicklaus was ready.

"I'm better prepared than I've been in several years coming into the Masters," said Nicklaus who won his two previous outings, in the Doral Open and the Heritage Classic. "I've played well the last six weeks. My swing has been good."

"From a confidence standpoint, I'm on top of my game."

Nicklaus said the 7,020-yard Augusta National with its wide fairways and huge, undulating greens, "is in its best shape in years."

Player predicted that the winning score would be about 11-under-par 277, a score equalled or bettered only five times in the 38 previous Masters, but Nicklaus said "I don't think you are going to see as low scores as you might expect."

Nicklaus' thinking was based on the fact that "if it doesn't rain, the greens will get hard and fast."

But there was some rain Wednesday and the weatherman said there was a 60 per cent chance of rain today. Today's starting field totals 76, including 53 U.S. professionals, seven U.S. amateurs and 16 foreign professionals. No amateur has ever won the Masters and the only foreigner to win is Player who won in 1961 and gain last year.

Fred McLeod, the 1908 U.S. Open champion who is now 92 years old, was scheduled to be the first golfer to tee off today with official play beginning 10 minutes later, at 9:30 a.m. edt.

Three Records Broken In AAU Swim Meet

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Three American records were broken Wednesday night during the AAU National Short Course Swimming Championships at Keating Natatorium here.

Nancy Garapick, 13, Halifax, Nova Scotia, swam a record time of 2:02.84 in the women's 200-yard backstroke, beating the old record of 2:04 set by Wendy Cook of Vancouver in 1974.

Kim Dunson, 17, Dallas, Tex., covered the women's 100-yard breaststroke in 1:05.25. She beat the holder of the previous mark, Marcia Morey, Decatur, Ill. Miss Morey's old mark, set last year, was 1:05.53.

Deena Deardruff, 17, Cincinnati, swam the women's 100-yard butterfly in :55.7 to set a new American record. The old record was held by Peggy Tosdal of Mission Viejo, Calif., set last year in :55.8.

The top three finishers in each of the eight events Wednesday were:

Women's 200-yard backstroke: 2, Tauna Vandeweghe, Los Angeles, Calif., 2:06.51; 3, Melissa Belote, Fairfax, Va., 2:06.52.

Men's 200-yard backstroke: 1, John Naber, University of Southern California, 1:48.13; 2, Zoltan Verraszo, Hungarian Swimming Association, 1:48.94; 3, Bruce Hardcastle, Lodi, Calif., 1:51.09.

Women's 100-yard breaststroke: 2, Marcia Morey, Decatur, Ill., 1:05.48; 3, Lynn Colella Bell, Seattle, Wash., 1:06.05.

Men's 100-yard breaststroke: 1, John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., :56.16; 2, Rick Hofstetter, University of Washington, :56.91; 3, Mike Drews, Auburn University, :56.91.

Women's 500-yard freestyle: 1, Shirley Babashoff, Mission Viejo, Calif., 4:50.95; 2, Jo Harshbarger, Bellevue, Wash., 4:52.82; 3, Heather Greenwood, Fresno, Calif., 4:53.54.

Men's 500-yard freestyle: 1, Tim Shaw, Long Beach, Calif., 4:22.57; 2, Rod Strachan, University of Southern California, 4:26.91; 3, Dick Hannula, Tacoma, Wash., 4:27.10.

Women's 100-yard butterfly: 2, Valerie Lee, Mission Viejo, Calif., :55.97; 3, Camille Wright, Louisville, Ky., :56.06.

Men's 100-yard butterfly: 1, Gary Hall, Cincinnati, :48.86; 2, Mike Bottom, University of Southern California, :49.15; 3, Steve Baxter, University of Southern California, :49.50.

Preliminaries will be held Thursday morning in the men's and women's 200-yard freestyle, 400-yard individual medley, and 400-yard medley relay. Finals in the events will be held Thursday night.

DeMicco's Trounce Bar

KINGSTON — The scoring tempo slackened in the YMCA "A" basketball league, as DeMicco Motors trounced The Handicapper 67-52. The Motormen trailed 10-11 at the quarter but went ahead to stay with a 19-10 edge in the second period.

Jim Ferraro led the winners with 16 points. John Tucker added 14 and Mike Jordan 13. The Handicapper used a tight, five-man lineup, with Ray Lindhorst hitting 18 points and Harry Brink getting 14.

John Carr scored 21 points before fouling out with four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter to pace Tudoroff Brothers to a 61-53 decision over Doc Smith's. The exit left the winners with only four players on the floor. In other B action, The Well dunked Giustino's Market 76-

Ali Denies Those Ripoff Quotes

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, claiming not enough people have the opportunity of seeing him, will box a three-round exhibition with Rodney Bobick Tuesday night as part of the fight card at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Mike Dundee, a spokesman for the auditorium and nephew of Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, said Wednesday Ali agreed to box Bobick in the exhibition because "he feels many people don't get a chance to see him in his title fights."

On the same topic of not enough people seeing his fights, Ali, while denying a published report he is "ripping off" the public, revealed he is taking a $2 million loss in defending his title against Ron Lyle next month in order that "people can afford to see it on home television."

Ali had been quoted Tuesday as saying boxing against the likes of Chuck Wepner and Ron Lyle "is a big ripoff."

"It feels like stealing some times," Ali was supposed to have said. "I just made a million and a half dollars beating a nobody like Chuck Wepner. I'll make another million dollars beating another nobody like Ron Lyle."

"I didn't say none of that," Ali told UPI. "That's the most stupidest thing a man of my intelligence could say. I'm a religious man. You can't be a thief and a religious man, too."

"If I say anything, I stand up to the world and I'll go to jail for it. I'm not a coward and I don't cop out on anything I say," continued the man who was once stripped of his title for refusing induction into the armed services.

"I want you to know we could have gotten three million dollars for fighting against Joe Bugner but it would have been on closed circuit television which is too expensive for many of my fans. We took the Lyle fight for a million dollars, instead, so it could be on home television where my fans could see it."

Dundee said the exhibition against Bobick will be included on the auditorium's boxing card which includes as its main event a bout between lightweight Tom Bethea of New York and Bobby Lloyd of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Ali is scheduled to fight Lyle May 16 in Las Vegas. He last fought March 24, when he knocked out Wepner in the 15th round Richfield, Ohio, in his first defense of the title since winning it from George Foreman last October.

Bobick, younger brother of former Olympic boxer Duane Bobick, has a 32-4 record. He defeated Pedro Agosto last Friday night in Uniondale, N.Y.

Tanner Just Gets By

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Roscoe Tanner says he doesn't think anybody is unbeatable on the pro tennis tour and he may get a chance to prove it.

Tanner fought his way through two surprisingly tough sets Wednesday night before taking command and earning a spot in the quarter-finals of the $60,000 St. Louis Tennis Classic as the tournament's second seed.

Tonight, he can watch while top-seeded Rod Laver, who is rolling over everybody on the WCT's blue group tour, tries to win his second-round match with Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union. Laver is attempting to win his fifth straight blue group tournament.

If the two keep winning, they will meet in the tournament finals Sunday.

Tanner had a few tense moments in his match with Rob Maud of South Africa before winning, 3-6, 6-4, and 6-1. Maud broke service in the third and ninth games of the first set and almost had Tanner on the ropes in the second set before Tanner eked out a win. Then Tanner took charge and lost only 11 points in the third set.

Vitas Gerulaitas, at 20 the youngest member of the blue group, also won Wednesday, beating Alex Mayer, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. Gerulaitas, the No. 4 seed, broke away from a 3-3 tie in the second set by winning nine straight points.

Brian Fairlie of New Zealand had the first upset, downing fifth-seed Allan Stone of Australia, 6-4, 7-6. Fairlie took the first five points of the tiebreaker and went on to win 7-3.

Jaime Fillol of Chile won the other match, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, over Ray Ruffels of Australia.

Besides the Laver match, other second round matches scheduled for today include Andy Pattison of Rhodesia vs. sixth-seeded Brian Gottfried, Jeff Borowiak of Tiburon, Calif., vs. Brazilian Tomaz Koch and Roy Emerson of Australia vs. third-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico.

Two New Paltz State College basketball players are listed among the Top 15 scorers for the 1974-75 State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) season.

The leader was Bob Rich, a 6-3 Oswego State senior, who racked up 237 points for a 21.5 average in 11 games.

Bob Irish, a New Paltz junior, was sixth with a 17.7 average on 195 points and Ron Domanski, another Hawk, 14th with a 15.1 average.

Runnerup to Rich was Mike Panaggio, son of the Brockport coach, with a 19.0 average.

Top rebounder in the league was Larry Parker of Plattsburgh, 6-5 Plattsburgh freshman with a 17.9 average on 197 rebounds in 11 games.

Ed Robota, 6-5 senior

Geneseo State star, has been voted the Most Valuable Player in the SUNYAC for the 1974-75 season, by the conference coaches. Robota heads a 10-man All-Conference team that includes three players from the champion Brockport team.

Joining Robota on the first team All SUNYAC are (in order of selection) Mike Panaggio, 6-2 Brockport senior;

Larry Parker, 6-5 Plattsburgh freshman; Greg Miller, 6-8 Buffalo State sophomore; and Monroe (Pops) McTaw, 6-6 Brockport sophomore.

Dan Panaggio, 5-11 Brockport sophomore, tops the second unit, which also includes Ed Johnson, 6-2 Albany sophomore; 6-2 senior Jackie Dalton and 6-1 junior Steve Blackmon, both of Oneonta; and Dave Hoch, 6-2 Buffalo State senior.

Whitewater Racing Set On the Esopus Creek

BIG INDIAN

The first annual Esopus Whitewater Canoe Races will be held Sunday, April 20, rain or shine, starting at 10 a.m. on the Esopus Creek at Big Indian. The finish line is at Boiceville 16 miles to the east.

The races are sponsored by the Appalachian Mountain Club, New York Chapter, in cooperation with the American Canoe Association of Atlantic City, N.J. The races are recommended for experienced whitewater paddlers only.

The traditional open "Canadian" canoe in whitewater has obtained national recognition. The American Canoe Association and the United States Canoe Association have sanctioned a national championship for this sport.

The concept as set forth by Bill Stearns of Penobscot Paddle and Chowder Society notes that the open canoe in racing should be preserved and encouraged. The all-around canoe is a wonderful boat. No other boat offers so great a variety of capabilities. The course that has flat water will demand fine lines; portage will demand reasonable size and weight; white water will demand maneuverability, stability and rough water capability and length will demand comfort and strength.

The Esopus exemplifies this type of course, Stearns concluded.

Entry fees must be postmarked no later than Monday April 14. There will be 11 classes. Three entries are required to make a class. Race chairman is Robert E. Courtney, Long Pond, Mahopac, N.Y. 10541.

Complete specifications and safety rules are available by writing race chairman Courtney.

U.S. Skaters in Peril

MUNICH (UPI) — The United States, winless in its five games of the World Ice Hockey Championships, now faces relegation from the round robin tournament.

The U.S. lost 5-3 to Poland in a battle to get out of the championship cellar Wednesday and now needs a win in the return game in Duesseldorf in a week's time to save itself from dropping back again into the B group.

The only other chance the U.S. has is a rule change being considered by the Federation which would expand the championship from six to eight teams when they next take place in Katowice, Poland. But U.S. Coach Bob Johnson said he was not gambling on the group being expanded.

State Budgets: 'That Rainy Day Has Come'

State governments are cutting back on services and trimming their budget.

In state after state, the combination of inflation and recession has cut into income. Coupled with newly elected legislatures' spending promises and cries of anguish from state budget directors that there's no money to pay for them, many states are teetering over a sea of red ink.

A survey last fall showed there was approximately $4.1 billion in surplus money scattered throughout the states.

A new April survey shows a paper surplus of about $3.6 billion, with some of it already spent through overly optimistic tax cutting and building programs and some earmarked to cover upcoming deficits.

Texas is a good example. Last year Texas had a projected 1.5 billion surplus. In April it has dwindled to $750.6 million, with the appropriations bill for the next two years not prepared.

The vanished Texas surplus is blamed on sagging tax revenue and the deepening recession, plus emergency spending bills passed by state legislators.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, in justifying his $750.6 million surplus estimate, said, "I'm not going to go out with a witching rod to find something that's not there. If the legislature is going to dance this session, somebody's going to have to pay the fiddler."

In contrast, a lot of states, if not prosperous, generally are healthy.

The fuel shortage and rising coal prices have helped Kentucky and West Virginia both keep $125 million surpluses.

California has an estimated $552 million surplus, with hopes of holding on to most of it in the next budget year. Minnesota has an estimated $400 million surplus, and Oklahoma, with increasing gas and oil income, an estimated $190 million in extra cash.

Other states with solid surpluses and generally healthy economies are Montana, Kansas, Hawaii, Iowa, Indiana, North Dakota and Arkansas.

But for many states, it is a fight to find money to pay the bills.

Massachusetts with its high unemployment and sagging income faced a deficit that could go as high as $425 million.

"Look, the state is broke, dead broke," said Gov. Michael Dukakis. "When you're broke you can do two things: You can go to the taxpayers—who themselves are not doing too well—and ask them to cough up some more. Or you can cut. We're going that second route just as hard as we can...."

New Jersey has an estimated $487 million deficit and must find the funds to balance a bare-bones budget. Connecticut, with the highest sales tax in the nation—7 percent—has a projected deficit of $90 million.

Florida is trying to meet a $232 revenue deficit by cutting spending and dipping into its capital reserve fund.

New York ended its April 1 fiscal year with an $18.5 million deficit. State officials said at least $500 million in new taxes will be required to balance a $10.4 billion budget.

Other states facing deficits are New Hampshire with $12 million and Vermont with $6.1 million.

Illinois has a $215 million general fund balance. Now it must spend it all.

Gov. Daniel Walker, in commenting that savings are for an emergency, said, "The rainy day has come. Uncertainty became a certainty and the certainty is the recession...it is time to use that money."

Michigan, with its limping auto industry and widespread job layoffs, is struggling to balance its budget. Its $207 million surplus from last year has melted to $200,000, and fiscal experts say the state faces a $103 million deficit next in the next two years.

Pennsylvania also is struggling to stay ahead of the red ink. Officials said a surplus of $143 million projected for this fiscal year will be wiped out in the 1975-76 period.

Other states which started the fiscal year with healthy surpluses, but either spent it, or plan to spend it to stay even, are Missouri, Maryland, Louisiana, Alabama, Washington, Georgia, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Ohio, South Carolina, North Carolina, Oregon, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho.

States with little or no surplus and which must find revenues and cut spending to balance budgets included Delaware, Nebraska, Arizona, Maine, Rhode Island and Nevada, Tennessee.

Ugly April Predicted

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Two almanacs say they sun will shine on Oklahoma for most of the second half of the month. Weather forecasters using scientific data say much the same thing. But Wanda McNeill, who predicts weather by looking at the moon, says it's going to snow in April.

Mrs. McNeill, who says her forecasts are about 85 per cent correct, uses the moon's phases and nodes, or points where the moon's orbit intersects the planes of the planets' orbits, to make long-range weather predictions. She uses several almanacs to interpret the moon's phases.

"I don't see much good about April," Mrs. McNeill, 73, who calls herself the Moon Maid, said Monday. "It's just going to be a windy, ugly month."

"On the 11th of April the new moon enters at 11:39 a.m. in conjunction with Saturn, giving us high winds, cold and dry," she says.

She predicts snow at least as far south as Oklahoma City after April 19 when the first quarter moon appears.

"But cheers. After the full pink moon on the 25th at 2:55 p.m. it will be sunny and bright," she wrote in her April report.

May, however, will be cold, and May Day will be wet, she said.

Mrs. McNeill has given regular forecasts on radio and television shows in the area since 1966.

She calls television forecasters to congratulate them on the proximity of their forecasts to hers. Recently she heard a Salt Lake City forecaster who had just been surprised with a sudden snowfall and sent him her forecast for the area.

She also has tips for gardeners.

"From the full moon to the new, plant crops that bear below the ground and from the new moon to the full, plant crops that bear above the ground," she said.

She said the moon governs all weather and "it's bound to govern the seeds you put in the ground."

If planted under the wrong moon, the plants bearing above the ground will go to leaves or blossoms and the plants that bear underground will grow tops and not produce anything, she said.

She firmly believes in folklore.

"Our grandfathers had nothing to go on except watching weather from year to year," she said.

"It's a lot of fun," she said. "I have had boy and girl scouts call about their tramps and a highway patrolman called me and wanted to know what the weather was going to be like when he was getting married."

United Jewish Appeal Guest

BEN ZION LEUCHTER

KINGSTON

Ben Zion Leuchter of Vineland, N.J., chairman of Region II of the United Jewish Appeal Campaign Cabinet, will be guest speaker in Kingston April 19.

He will be appearing on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barnes, 430 Pearl Street, at 8 p.m. Announcement of the program was made today by Benjamin Schecter, general chairman of the local campaign.

Leuchter visited Israel twice in 1974, the second time as a participant in the UJA's Advanced Leadership Seminar in which national campaign leaders spent two weeks of intensive study with Israeli scholars, philosophers, historians and political analysts.

Active in many other aspects of Jewish life both nationally and locally, Leuchter is chairman of the National Jewish Conference Center and is a member of the national boards of the Institute for Jewish Life, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency and the United HIAS Service. He was one of the original 40 members of the National Young Leadership Cabinet when it was convened in Dec. 1962 by the late U.S. Sen. Herert H. Lehman, and he was a National Vice Chairman of the Young Leadership Cabinet at the time he was "graduated" by age to the senior Cabinet.

A member of the New Jersey State Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League, Mr. Leuchter was the founder and first president of the Vineland Jewish Community Council and served five times as general chairman of the Vineland Allied Jewish Appeal. He is a past president of Beth Israel Congregation in his home community, a past president of the Southern New Jersey Development Council, and was a member of the Governor's Select Commission on Civil Disorder in New Jersey in 1967.

A graduate of Haverford College, Mr. Leuchter has been editor of the Vineland Times Journal since 1949. He and his wife, Magda, have four children.

Area Synagogue News

Temple Emanuel

Scott Pauker, son of June and Bernard Pauker, will conduct his Bar Mitzvah Sabbath services Friday 7:30 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. All interested persons may attend this special Jewish service.

June Pauker will kindle the Sabbath lights and Scott and Bernard Pauker will lead the congregation in the Kiddush prayer. Scott will be blessed by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn and will receive gifts from Temple Sisterhood and the Temple Religious School.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Alick Mollott, Hilda Hamburger, Joseph Forman, Annie Meyer, Harvey Wolff, Kurt Hoffman, Anna Mones, Martin Seidlin and Joseph Kalish.

After services the congregation may attend the Oneg Shabbat reception in honor of Scott Pauker's Bar Mitzvah. The Basic Judaism Class will meet Saturday 1:30 to 3 p.m.

B'nai B'rith will sponsor a community program of Jewish interest Sunday 10 a.m. at the Temple. Topic will be Jewish Youth: Left or Leaving?

The next monthly Living Room Havurah Discussion will be held 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Braunstein, 8 Pearl Street, on Rejuvenating Contemporary Jewish Prayer. All interested persons may make reservations with Mrs. Braunstein. Temple Affiliation is not required.

Temple Board of Trustees will meet 8 p.m. Thursday, April 17.

Ahavath Israel

Sabbath services will be conducted at the conservative synagogue, Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, Friday 8 p.m., followed by Oneg Shabbat and Saturday 9:30 a.m. followed by a Kiddush.

Israel Independence Day, Yom Ha'atzmant will be celebrated Friday evening. A creative service has been prepared especially for this festive occasion by Rabbi Aryeh Lev Lupkin. Students in the Religious School, members of United Synagogue Youth and adult congregants will participate in prayers and readings. The congregational choir will sing.

The Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Sherry and Richard Belkin of Syracuse, daughter and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wilpan in honor of the Wilpan's 40th wedding anniversary.

At both services the mourner's prayer will be offered for the following departed whose Yahrzeits will be observed during the coming week: Harry Goldman, Isaac Reuben, Harry Brines, Eva Nearon, Benjamin Dubin, Nathaniel Head, Isadore Head, Oscar Nussbaum, David Weinstein and Hyman Weiner.

All services are conducted by Rabbi Lupkin. The adult education group studying programmed Hebrew reading will meet Monday 7:30 p.m.

Congregational choir rehearsal will be Thursday 7 p.m.

Agudas Achim

The Oneg Shabbat at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue, will be held 8 p.m. Friday with Rabbi Basil Herring delivering the sermon. Candlelighting Friday will be at 7:11 p.m. Saturday morning services at 8:30 will be conducted by Cantor Slomovitz. The weekly portion is Tazria-Metzora. The Sisterhood art show will be presented Saturday 8:45 p.m.

Parents interested in a possible Jewish Day School in the area will meet Monday 7:30 p.m. at Dutch Village entertainment lounge.

All adults and teens interested in learning either to read or speak Hebrew fluently may contact Rabbi Herring this week.

Services are conducted daily 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Lloyd has the material

If you want to buy fresh beer, buy it from a man who sells a lot of beer. The same is true of lumber. When you don't sell much what you do sell is weathered, split and even warped. And the customer doesn't have the opportunity to select what he wants.

At Lloyd you choose from fresh stock. Throughout 1974 and right now into 1975 Lloyd continues to increase sales of lumber and other construction products. Fast turnover means you get the best. And you get the best prices too.

Before you buy construction materials (particularly those stored outside) be sure your dealer has enough to supply you and many, many more people like you. It's your assurance that you're getting what you pay for. See you at Lloyds!

BOCES Proposed $3.29 Million Budget Includes Barclay Funds

NEW PALTZ
Ulster County BOCES has proposed a tentative 1975-76 operating budget of $3.29 million that includes $450,000 for the rental of the former Barclay building in Port Ewen.

Whether that money will every be spent, however, remains undetermined.

While most of Wednesday's meeting dealt with the financial outlook for the next school year, there was some related discussion on the still-clouded situation concerning a home for the county-wide vocational education program.

BOCES is seeking to consolidate all of its programs and services at the Port Ewen location. Its march to beat a September renovation deadline, however, was thwarted two weeks ago when the Town of Esopus Zoning Board of Appeals refused to grant a variance which would have permitted BOCES to utilize the building.

The Ulster County Planning Board has since joined the dispute, claiming, in essence, that the local zoning board doesn't have jurisdiction in the matter.

To further complicate the matter, Town of Esopus Attorney Norman Kellar is on vacation, and the town appears unwilling to make a commitment until he has an opportunity to study the planning board's ruling.

BOCES, in the meantime, is waiting and watching. "We are very hopeful that these things will be worked out," said Dr. Jack Roosa, BOCES administrator.

Meanwhile, BOCES has another deadline to meet. Its budget for the next school year must be approved before May 15, and certain revisions may be made in the proposed budget before final adoption.

The total gross budget proposed for 1975-76 is $3,297,656. Projected state aid totals $1,276,900, with a net amount to be raised by local taxes tentatively set at $2,020,756.

The total gross budget for 1974-75 totaled $2,617,539. State aid amounted to $1,173,360 and the local share was $1,444,179.

Dr. Roosa emphasized that a number of varying factors have contributed to the projected $680,117 budget increase. The rental fee for the Barclay building in Port Ewen, he noted, represents a significant portion of the budget hike.

But Roosa also noted that part of the increase can be attributed to requests for additional or expanded services from the local school districts served by BOCES.

"Nine local school districts are served by our educational program," he explained, "and we provide computer services to 45 school districts. We cannot refuse a particular service if it has been requested by at least two school districts and approved by the Commissioner of Education."

In addition to expanded services that will be offered by Ulster County BOCES next year, the budget hike also reflects projected increased operating costs and improved salaries and benefits for BOCES employees.

Each individual school district pays for the services it receives with tax monies that are raised locally.

Of the projected $680,117 increase in next year's gross budget, local taxpayers will have to pay $576,577 of that amount, primarily because of a sharp cutback in state aid to BOCES approved by the New York State Legislature last year. In fact, noted Roosa, despite the projected $680,000 budget increase for the next year, state aid to Ulster County BOCES is expected to drop by $103,540. The BOCES board, which consists of nine members from the nine member school districts, will evaluate proposals made at Wednesday's hearing before adopting a final budget before mid-May.

In other action Wednesday, the board reelected Milton Reynolds of Kingston to a five-year term and elected Michael Lembo of Wallkill to fill out the remaining three years of an unexpired term. The board also voted to petition the commissioner of education to allow expansion of the board from nine to 11 members.

AFS Foreign Students to Spend Week in Kingston

Kingston High School hosts students from Morocco, Belgium, Guatemala, Australia, Switzerland and its own exchanged student from Austria next week, with the young people scheduled to attend classes Friday and participate in an evening of entertainment at the Holiday Inn Friday night. Group Wants Monies Withheld

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON
An "Ad Hoc Citizens Committee on Kingston Community Development, composed primarily of residents of Rondout wants the federal government to withhold approval on the city's $1,359,000 Community Development Program until the committee can come up with an alternative plan.

The committee met for the second time in a week on Wednesday night at the Rondout Center on Broadway and authorized the forwarding of a formal protest to federal officials on the city's plan, submitted on March 26 for approval.

Noting the "strong objections" raised at last week's seminar at the Holiday Inn off Washington Avenue, the letter states, "We feel that their (the city's) allocations of the money are not consistent with the needs of the community of the City of Kingston."

The committee, led by James Billups, Lester Hatcher and David Joseph, county director, Rondout president and executive director, respectively of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, also criticized what it termed "very poorly publicized" public hearing notices by the city.

Many of the issues raised at the first meeting were aired again last night although the central theme still seemed to be almost universal opposition to the City's plan to spend $375,000 for the rehabilitation of the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway. "We do not question the need for neighborhood centers," the letter to HUD read, "but there are many other higher priorities for the $375,000 than spending it on renovating a single facility." Housing was listed as the top priority.

"I feel that one of the single biggest rip-offs in the Koenig plan is that $375,000 for the auditorium," Billups declared.

Billups was asked why the Rondout Community agreed to the expenditure of almost $500,000 for the Rondout Neighborhood Center (by the city) if the community felt that housing should be top priority. Why didn't the community demand that $500,000 be spent for housing? he was asked.

Billups suggested the two recreation facilities were not analogous, that the Rondout Neighborhood Center was needed at the time because there were no recreational facilities in Rondout.

Joseph termed the construction of the Rondout Neighborhood Center "a stopgap measure."

"It was a typical political move," he said. "It did not deal with the problem."

The problem, as outlined last night, is both human and physical. Most of the 50 persons in attendance agreed that it would do little good to rehabilitate buildings in Broadway West if (social) services were not provided to the people.

Along those lines, suggestions were made to turn the old Rondout Center into a "downtown social services center."

The only city official in attendance at last night's meeting was Alderman John F. Coffey, a member of the Common Council's Community Development Committee. Coffey attended the first meeting, also, along with Alderman John Finch and City Planner Robert E. Pritchard.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig was invited but could not attend. The Ad Hoc Committee, with Estelle Kattleson serving as chairperson, plans to meet with Koenig Friday afternoon to discuss the city's program.

The Price of Gasoline . . .

TOWN OF HURLEY

Gasoline retailers — caught in a three-way grip between the federal government, profit-conscious oil companies and economy-minded consumers — vented their feelings and frustrations at a three-hour meeting Wednesday night.

Some 30 local gasoline dealers — a small turnout by most standards but one of the best attended meetings in this area in years — met under the auspices of the Gasoline Retailers Association of Northeast New York (GRA). The dominant topic of the evening: the price of gasoline.

All the dealers who attended Wednesday's meeting represent the name-brand (branded) oil companies, and in recent months they've found themselves on the short end of a gasoline "war" with the independent stations. In some areas, independents are selling fuel for as much as 10 cents per gallon less than the majors.

Most of the dealers agreed Wednesday that they can't and won't — try to compete with the independents, despite whatever temporary hardships might result. Instead, most indicated that they would continue to emphasize quality service and good management in order to keep their heads above water.

Peter Conway, a Mobil dealer from Albany who is also president of the GRA, was most emphatic in that regard. "I'm not going to lower my price, I'm not going to stay open 24 hours a day just to meet my allocation," he said, slamming his hand on the table. "I'm not going to worry about what the guy next door is doing. Old-fashioned basic service is going to sell my product, and that's what I'm going to provide."

For many of the major dealers, pump prices are currently little above the break-even point. It was noted that the dealers have to charge their customers about six cents per gallon above wholesale price in order to run a full service station. Conway said his margin (the difference between what he pays and what he charges) is 10 cents, and that he is being "killed" by a lower-priced competitor across the street.

Although gas sales have slumped, Conway said he can survive with his towing and mechanical service. But not everyone at the meeting agreed. One local dealer insisted that he has to remain competitive at the pumps in order to continue attracting repair customers to his garage.

George Goldfarb, who owns a Gulf station on Broadway, was one of those who believed the price competitiveness is necessary. "You can't charge six cents a gallon more than the guy across the street, and still do the same volume repair work," he said.

Although they never reached full agreement on whether it's best to try to compete with the cheaper independents, all of the major dealers at Wednesday's meeting concurred on at least one point: they offer a degree of service and reliability that the independents cannot provide and that the customers cannot do without.

It is in that area that the major dealers hold substantial bargaining power with the consumer. One dealer, whose station is located a short distance from a discount outlet, told of the time when a motorist's car stalled in the discount's parking lot. The driver pushed the car down the hill to the dealer's station and asked for help. The dealer said he told the man to keep pushing.

George Lamoreaux, a Mobil dealer on Lucas Avenue, pointed out that the gasoline sold by independents and majors is not the same, even though it may come from the same source. And he, too, emphasized the service that the majors provide.

"If a guy I've never seen before comes into the station for service," said Lamoreaux, "I don't mess around. I ask him where he's been, where he's been buying his gas. We should all get together and close down for two days and just stand by and watch the cars die along the highway."

$10,000 Worth of LSD Seized

TOWN OF ULSTER

A report of a car being operated erratically resulted in the seizure Wednesday afternoon of an estimated $10,000 worth of LSD and the arrest of two persons on charges which could result in life prison terms upon conviction. Quantities of alleged cocaine, barbiturates and marijuana were also seized, police said.

Incidents leading to the finding of some 5,000 "hits" of LSD began at about 2:30 p.m.

when Hurley Trooper Leonard Kasson pulled over a car which was allegedly being operated in an erratic manner on Route 28 near the intersection with Route 209.

Kasson charged the driver, Steven Abramowitz, 32, of Route 28, Mt. Tremper, with driving while under the influence of drugs.

With the assistance of BCI Investigator Wayne Beyea, Abramowitz and the car were searched, resulting in the discovery of some 100 "hits" of LSD and quantities of cocaine, marijuana and barbiturates, police said.

With the discovery of the alleged drugs, Abramowitz and a passenger, Frances Mary Bullock, 21, of Shokan were charged with third degree criminal possession of a controlled substance, a charge which carries a mandatory life prison sentence upon conviction.

The two were then taken before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly and were ordered confined in Ulster County Jail without bail pending further court action.

It was at the jail that the major quantity of alleged LSD was found.

A search of Miss Bullock by a jail matron resulted in the discovery of some 5,000 hits of alleged LSD hidden on her person, officials said. State police were called back to the jail and the LSD was turned over to them.

Further charges are now pending against Abramowitz and Miss Bullock, officials said.

'Trying to Shake the Tree'

PORT EWEN

The Town of Esopus hopes to find out on April 18 just how much state and federal aid it can expect for the Port Ewen Sewer Improvement Area.

Supervisor George Freer said at Wednesday's board meeting that he will travel to Albany on that date for a meeting with state representatives. The purpose: "We'll try to shake the money tree," said Freer.

Freer explained that the sewer district has been legally formed, that the necessary public hearing has been held and that pertinent studies have been completed. In fact, the town has just about everything it needs to start the project except a firm financial commitment from the state and federal governments.

"The situation looks good," said Freer, "at one point we were talking of 65 percent state and federal aid, but now there's word we could get as much as 87 percent, as well as money for the collector lines (which usually must be funded at the local level)."

Freer emphasized, however, that the town still is not committed to the project. "When we learn exactly how much financial help we'll be getting from the state and federal governments, we'll sit down and figure out the tax rate and then present it to the people at another public hearing. We're not going to jump into anything until the people give us the go-ahead."

No firm pricetag has been attached to the proposed sewer construction, primarily because some developments are pending. The supervisor noted the Aero Lake housing development has indicated an interest in joining the sewer improvement area, which would result in a greater initial expense but a lower overall tax rate.

In other matters Wednesday, the town board:

- Scheduled a public hearing for May 14 at 7 p.m. on a proposal by Kingston Cablevision to increase its rates from $5.95 to $6.95 per month, and to attach a penalty clause for theft of services. It was noted that an estimated 57 people in the Town of Esopus alone are "stealing" Cablevision service.

- Reviewed correspondence between Town Attorney Norman Kellar and Ulster County Highway Superintendent Jose Camallonga concerning some unsteady trees on Old Post Road in West Esopus. It was noted that the trees were undermined by a gravel quarry operation along the road, and the town now wants the county to either shore up or remove the trees before they topple onto the road and utility wires. The matter remains unresolved.

- Discussed ways to obtain federal funds to support the town museum, located in the old Reformed Church in Ulster Park.

- Tabled a resolution supporting a resolution which will be introduced at tonight's Ulster County Legislature meeting requiring that 30 minutes of each county meeting be opened for public comment.

- Scheduled clean-up days for the township for April 28, 29 and 30.

- Appointed Marshall Kithcart to the town recreation commission and Jane Kellar and John Bowman Jr. to the town environmental conservation commission.

. . . Happy Ending

HALCYON PARK

A seven-year-old Halcyon Park boy who had apparently decided to walk from his home to IBM to see his father at work became the object of a brief but intensive search Wednesday night after he turned up missing from his home.

With members of the Ruby Fire Department, sheriff's deputies, state police and Ulster town constables out looking for him, Steven Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wood of 26 Corwin Place, was found at about 9:20 p.m. by a state police BCI investigator walking on Neighborhood Road near the Lake Katrine School.

He had been reported missing at about 8:30 p.m., but actually turned up missing about 1 1/2-hours before that when his mother went outside to call him in from play, according to Ruby Fire Chief William Scheffel. The mother and neighbors searched, but to no avail.

When found, the boy was walking back toward his home and was tired and frightened, Scheffel said.

Ready for the Environmental Fair

One of 35 booths—this one sponsored by Fibreclaim, Inc. dealing with recovery from solid wastes—stands ready for the Sunday, April 20 Environmental Fair. The fair, sponsored by the Ulster County Environmental Management Council, will be held from 12 noon to 5 p.m. in Elting Gymnasium on the campus of New Paltz State University. Booths and displays covering such topics as recycling, energy and conservation will be available for public inspection. (Freeman photo)

Response to Environmental Fair 'Enthusiastic'

KINGSTON Initial response to the Ulster County Environmental Management Council's Environmental Fair has been enthusiastic, according to fair chairman Dr. Angelos V. Patsis.

The fair, scheduled for Sunday, April 20, at the Elting Gymnasium of the State University College at New Paltz, will feature 35 booths from industry, governmental, and environmental groups.

Resource recovery, one of the fair's major topics, is closely related to its theme of "Energy, Economy and Our Environment." Methods for recycling—from simple separation at the homesite to sophisticated resource recovery plants that produce marketable ferrous metals, aluminum, glass and paper—will be demonstrated.

Booths on recycling will be manned by Reynolds Aluminum Company, the Ulster County Environmental Task Force and the Town of Marlborough Environmental Conservation Commission. A display of the Black-Clawson resource recovery system and a film of the American Can Company's Americology system will be on view and representatives of the companies will be on hand to answer questions.

Recycling by reusing materials for arts and crafts will be demonstrated by the Ellenville Environmental Conservation Commission. Mrs. Mary Hansen of Accord will demonstrate that scrap pieces of cloth can be reused to make hooked rugs.

Other exhibitors will be the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County, Central Hudson, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, IBM, and the Ulster Cycling Club.

Cornell Professor Favors New Zoning Procedure

ITHACA, N.Y. Why not sell rights for commercial development to the highest bidder in public auction as part of the zoning procedure, asks Cornell University Professor Richard A. Baer Jr.

Speaking at an environmental leaders' forum on "Public Decision Making in Land Use Control: Ethics and Economics," sponsored by the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, Baer claimed almost all current zoning ordinances are based on what he calls "a false appraisal" of the inter-relationship between the economic interests of the individual and the rights of the general public.

He argued that land in or near an urban center in most cases becomes valuable for commercial purposes not because of any inherent quality of the land itself but rather because of the overall social, political, and economic development of the area surrounding the piece of land.

"Usually, the most significant immediate factor is the presence of a public road or highway, built and being maintained at public expense," he said.

Baer argued that if increases in development value of land is a function of the total community's activities, public officials should not give away such value to a private citizen without charge as is commonly done today through rezoning.

He cited effects of selling or leasing rights to developers as being threefold: 1—Much financial incentive for land speculation would be removed, opening the way for more ecologically sensitive approaches; 2—tax burden for the average citizen would be reduced because of an added source of local governmental income; 3—in cases where private property lost value as a result of nearby rezoning, new funds could be used to compensate the owner for his paper loss.

He said growth patterns in most American cities, particularly since World War II, have been determined by where land speculators could make the highest profits with little concern for long range aesthetic and environmental impact.

"The dismal proliferation of badly sited and poorly designed apartment complexes in urban areas and the depressing ribbon development along the approaches to most American cities, to name but two examples, are largely the results of outmoded land use policies," Baer stated.

He added, "We are the victims of inadequate zoning regulations based on doubtful philosophical premises."

Forest Tax Law . . . Repeal Urged

NEWBURGH Assessors from three area counties have asked the New York State Legislature to repeal the Forest Tax Law.

Assessors of Orange, Sullivan and Ulster counties, meeting recently in Newburgh, filed a resolution urging a delay in the effective date of the law so its effect can be studied further to determine its impact on taxpayers. The resolution was supported by the Ulster County Assessors Association.

County assessors of the three counties asked that the law be rescinded. The law allows anyone owning 25 acres or more of forest land to have its assessment dropped $35 per acre to $150 per acre.

Assessments currently run from $500 to $5,000 per acre.

Attending the meeting were Nicholas Badami, Town of New Paltz assessor; Martin Leskow, town of Woodstock assessor; Albert Voss, assessor for the towns of Denning and Hardenburgh; and Jack Reynolds, director of the Ulster County Real Property Tax Service Agency.

It was reported at the meeting that partial tax abatement would place undue burdens on other taxpayers. Reynolds noted that small property owners in the towns of Denning and Hardenburgh would be especially hard hit because of large amounts of forest land in these townships.

Kingston Jaycees To sponsor Booth

KINGSTON The Kingston Jaycees will sponsor a booth at the Lions Club Exposition and Home Show to acquaint area residents with the workings and purposes of the Jaycees and to recruit new members.

John Nagy, acting Jaycee president, said that a strong working nucleus has been formed and commitments made to carry out the purposes of the Jaycees in Kingston. He also said that strong support has been received from area merchants and banking institutions interested in having an active Jaycee chapter in the community.

Plans have been made to present an application for charter to the New York State Jaycee president at the divisional meeting to be hosted by the Red-Hook-Rhinebeck Jaycees on April 19.

Carey Move Supported

ALBANY

Richard McGuire, New York Farm Bureau president, supports Governor Hugh Carey's fight to cut the cost of public employment.

"While wages and benefits for some state workers are certainly warranted, it is clear that state bureaucracy is overburdened with a work force too large to justify increases sought by the Civil Service Employees Association," McGuire said. "We are not opposed to wage and benefit increases needed by those who contribute productively to state government, but to feed public employee rolls where performance is lacking feeds inefficiency, and no taxpayer can afford the luxury of unnecessary fat in our system."

a membership drive in progress to recruit area men between the ages of 18 and 35. Anyone interested in becoming involved in the community and developing personal leadership is asked to call Nagy at 336-6325 or Jon Brown at 246-5480.

The next scheduled Jaycee meeting will be at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 14 at the Ramada Inn.

Physics Meeting

NEW PALTZ

The Mid-Hudson Area Physics Teachers Association will hold its spring meeting at the State University College at New Paltz on Saturday.

Ray Sears, director of the American Institute of Physics Man-power Division, will speak on "Career Opportunities in Physics" and Dr. Donald Walker will conduct an electronics workshop on guidance digital logic circuitry of the type used in electronic computers.

Activities also include a slide showing by Robert Neff, association president, featuring some of M. C. Escher's prints. While primarily intended as a meeting of area physics teachers, others are welcome to attend, space permitting. For further information contact the Physics Department at the college.

Mayone Contempt Charge Withdrawn

KINGSTON
A contempt of court citation against Ulster County Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone was withdrawn Thursday after a brief hearing in City Court.

Mayone had been cited by Steven Rothenberg, court-appointed attorney for Nicholas Malanios, for failure to produce Malanios in City Court for sentencing on an attempted escape charge.

Assistant County Attorney Francis Murray, representing Mayone, submitted an affidavit from Mayone saying he did not receive the court order for Malanios' appearance until after the defendant had been sent to Dannemora State Prison to serve 1½ to 3 years on a third degree burglary conviction imposed previously by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

In his affidavit, Mayone said the City Court order had been received by a deputy at 6 p.m. the previous evening and was delivered by him to a Sheriff's Department lieutenant, who in turn delivered it to Mayone the next day of 9:30 a.m. Malanios, meanwhile, had left the jail for Dannemora at 7 a.m.

Murray asked for withdrawal of the charge against Mayone because Mayone had indicated he had no knowledge of the order in time to comply with it, and that a person to be accused of contempt must be apprised of the order he is charged with violating.

Rothenberg agreed to the withdrawal, saying his contempt charge had been filed not with the idea of seeking punishment but to bring to the court's attention the problems caused by lack of sufficient manpower.

Special City Judge George Beck, in ordering withdrawal of the charge, noted that Mayone had promised to make changes in his department's procedures to make sure he is personally notified of all court orders for his personal attention.

Conservatives Score Hinchey's Tax Vote

KINGSTON
Conservative Party Chairman William Jackson charged today that Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey (D-101st District) has shown himself to be "obviously a very ambitious politician eager to please and vote the way Gov. Carey and the New York City Democratic politicians direct."

Jackson was referring to Hinchey's votes for higher taxes—"during his campaign he tried to sound conservative," Jackson stated. "Hinchey said he favored a zero growth budget and was against taxes but now that his voting record is becoming known we see where his true allegiance lies and that's in New York City. His rhetoric sounded good but his performance is a dead giveaway."

Jackson took particular exception to Hinchey's votes in favor of "emergency" funding for the Urban Development Corporation, to the tune of $110 million.

Jackson noted that Upstate Republicans had voted against "subsidized public housing" but that Hinchey voted with New York City Democrats. UDC has two projects in Ulster County: 120 units in Broadway East and 100 units of senior citizen housing planned for Lake Katrine.

"I hope every voter in Ulster County will take the time to scrutinize Maurice Hinchey's voting record and know how we are almost literally being sold down the Hudson River," Jackson concluded.

Hinchey was unavailable for comment.

New Hearing Dates

KINGSTON
The postponed hearings for the Albany Avenue Nursing Home and Orthmann's Sanitarium — to contest a New York State Health Department order that they cease operations because of alleged uncorrectable fire safety violations — have been rescheduled.

The hearing for Orthmann's Sanitarium will be held May 13; the hearing for Albany Avenue Nursing Home will be held June 17. Both hearings will be held at the regional offices of the New York State Health Department in White Plains.

Both local nursing homes were notified in mid-January that their licenses would be suspended because of uncorrectable fire safety violations. They were among 62 in New York State cited by health authorities.

The state's primary argument against the two local facilities is that both are of wood frame construction. New state and federal regulations stipulate that nursing homes or health care facilities must be constructed of fire-proof materials.

Your Astrograph

For Friday April 11, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're going to make a sudden change in direction. A self-interest you've been vigorously pursuing will no longer appeal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It will be difficult to get a handle on things today.

Much of what you desire to do will be beyond your control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful how you treat friends today. Thoughtless actions could terminate a good and long-standing relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Pay extra heed to things reflecting on your honor and reputation. Your actions are being observed by hostile eyes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Now is the time to discard worn out ideas that haven't accomplished the results you had hoped for. Think of new approaches.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't rely on resources of others. One who promised to help you won't be able to now through no fault of his own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) One who is usually a staunch ally will behave in a very uncooperative manner today.

Be forgiving. His defection is temporary.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pace yourself sensibly at work today. Don't tackle tasks exceeding your talents or present capabilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be on your best behavior socially or you may act so as to cause others to hold you in less esteem.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a tendency today to shut others out if they don't comply readily with your ways. It could cost you a friend.

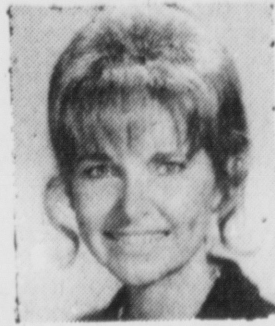

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful while traveling today. If driving, keep your eyes and mind on the road. Don't daydream or talk incessantly to passengers.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Continue to be extra cautious and watchful in financial dealings. Count your change. Get receipts of all transactions.

April 11, 1975

You will embark on a promising new venture this year. It will be a complete departure from what you've done in the past.

NOT YET: (Q.) All my friends are about 15 years old. They're allowed to drive around with the guys. I'm not, because I'm 13. Do you think I'm old enough to be able to do that? My parents say I have to be 15 but I don't think I can wait that long. — Not Old Enough in Florida.

(A.) You can wait if you find friends who are 13 and do the things that 13-year-olds like to do and are permitted to do.

You will have more genuine fun, too, than you are having with 15-year-olds.

BAD LOAN: (Q.) One day my girl friend asked to borrow my motorcycle. I didn't want to be a heel and say no so I let her have it.

When she came back she told me she had got a ticket. Now her parents are mad at me and won't let me see her. I called them and said how sorry I was for my mistake but they told me to get lost. I hate to say goodbye to my girl friend. — Ditched in Louisiana

(A.) You were wrong to lend the motorbike to your girl friend. But you and she should not be punished forever for it.

Talk to her parents again, in person, and make it clear to them that you and she are capable of using better judgment next time and that you intend to do so if they will just give you a chance.

Win at Bridge

Lancelot Slays 'em at Tables

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Lancelot, the peerless knight and bridge player, looked at his collection of aces, kings and queens with almost as much awe as if he had found the Holy Grail. Then he looked over at Dinadan, his partner, and decided he had better make sure to play notrump if the hand worked out that way. He opened five notrump.

Dinadan wasn't sure what that bid meant but he thought his king of spades justified a raise to six.

West opened the queen of spades. Lancelot won with his ace in order to keep dummy's one entry alive. Then he cashed his top red cards. East discarded a couple of small spades.

Now came the top clubs. West had to throw the 10 of spades in order to hang on to his red jacks. Now Lancelot led his last club, the deuce. West had to make another discard. It had to be his last spade. He could not spare a red jack.

Lancelot was now able to discard dummy's king of spades. East won with the jack of clubs and had to lead a spade. Lancelot's nine and seven had become a winning tenace over East's eight and six.

U.S. Halts Food Airlift To Besieged Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel forces overran two government outposts guarding Phnom Penh today and forced the United States to halt the airlift of food to the besieged Cambodian capital.

Reporters on the front lines said the Communist-led insurgents drove government defenders out of a military police post within two miles of Phnom Penh's Pochentong Airport.

The reporters said the guerrillas broke through gaps in the capital's crumbling defense line to overwhelm military police at Samrong

Teav, a village 1.8 miles north of the airport.

Initial reports said 15 police were killed, 20 wounded and 10 missing. The defenders left an assortment of arms and ammunition behind when they fled.

It was the closest ground fighting to the airport since the start of the insurgent offensive three months ago and imperiled America's massive supply airlift to the capital.

A guerrilla rocket ripped into the airport's loading area this morning, wounding a group of Cambodian cargo handlers and forcing a halt in U.S. food shipments.

American officials said, however, the United States would keep on flying ammunition and fuel into Pochentong despite the increasingly accurate shelling of the airport.

The Khmer Rouge insurgents have cut all of Phnom Penh's road and river routes for the past 69 days, leaving the lifeline airport as the city's only source of supplies.

The insurgents also overran a government outpost on the east bank of the Mekong River opposite Phnom Penh, forcing the retreating defenders to swim for safety across the waterway.

Reporters in the battle zone said 23 government soldiers were killed, 30 wounded and 20 missing when the rebels captured the 130-man outpost.

Official sources said persistent guerrilla advances along the river during the past two days have decreased the government's diminishing foothold on the east bank from 3 1/2 to three miles.

The Khmer Rouge insurgents also battled outnumbered government defenders in the streets of Kompong Speu, a province capital 25 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Reporters in the capital spotted what appeared to be a U.S. F4 Phantom reconnaissance jet making conspicuous passes over Phnom Penh during the day. It was apparently part of America's daily surveillance missions over Cambodia.

No Obvious Movement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials say there is no obvious movement of North Vietnamese troops southward for a mass assault on Saigon.

In Military Region III — Saigon and nearby — the North Vietnamese are outnumbered. But Hanoi has more troops in the northern provinces it recently captured.

Although numbers from Vietnam must always be taken cautiously, the Pentagon estimates North Vietnam now has about 75,000 combat troops in Region III, the Saigon area, and Region IV, the Mekong Delta area, facing about 100,000 regular South Vietnamese troops and another 100,000 less well equipped regional forces.

The Pentagon expected Hanoi to send troops and supplies south to beef up forces for attacking the capital. But so far, officials said today, there is no obvious movement.

If Hanoi massed all of its troops it would outnumber Saigon's forces. The Army chief of staff, Gen. Fred Weyand, estimated Hanoi's advantage at 2 or 3 to 1.

Pentagon analysts say North Vietnam could still try a major attack without bringing in its full strength. It could, for example, concentrate troops against a single city or province and try to punch a hole in Saigon's defenses.

So far Hanoi's attacks are considered small scale and not the division or more size.

Professional officers say the North Vietnamese should logically be attacking up and down the line and keeping the pressure on Saigon's forces to keep them off balance at least and to precipitate a collapse into chaos at best.

Some analysts doubt an outright attack on the city. They expect Hanoi to try to surround Saigon, cut off its supplies and strangle it without a direct assault.

Meanwhile the Pentagon announced that the South Vietnamese Air Force has been attacking airfields that fell to the Communists to destroy planes, bombs and supplies left behind.

"Many pilots saw a choice between taking their planes out and leaving their families behind or taking their families down the evacuation routes and leaving their planes behind. What choice do you think they made?" one officer said.

Hollywood 'Hawk-Dove' Feud

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Injecting the Vietnam war into the Academy Awards brought on a wrangle between Hollywood's hawks and doves, with old friends Frank Sinatra and Shirley MacLaine pitted against each other.

Miss MacLaine continued to protest Wednesday against Sinatra's using the name of the Motion Picture Academy in rebuking an Oscar winner for reading a Viet Cong telegram during the nationally televised ceremony Tuesday night.

The Academy stood behind Sinatra's right to speak for it afterward. But Miss MacLaine criticized Sinatra for taking a public stand without the prior consent of Academy members, many of whom she said did not agree.

She said the Oscar winner, Bert Schneider, had a right to say what he wanted in his thank you speech. Miss MacLaine argued that it was not out of place for Schneider to make a political comment, because he won his Oscar for making a political movie.

Schneider won the best feature length documentary award for "Hearts and Minds," a critical and controversial reprise of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. In his acceptance speech he referred to the possible fall of the Saigon government as the "liberation" of the country, and then read a wire from a Viet Cong official.

Miss MacLaine, author of a recently published book and documentary film favorable to Communist China, reportedly got into a backstage quarrel with Sinatra, a close friend of 10 years or more, after he read the statement. Miss MacLaine, Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr., emcees of the show, were backstage at the time, along with John Wayne and Bob Hope, two of the best known hawks in Hollywood, and Miss MacLaine's brother, actor Warren Beatty, who sides with his sister politically.
